MUSK GOES WITH TWITTER POLL, TO SELL TESLA STOCK

Twitter poll with 3.5 million votes backed Elon Musk in drama of selling a 10th of his stock, 58% in favour and 42% against

WAS A MEGA TAX LIABILITY THE TRUE REASON?

Regardless of the poll result, a stock sale may have been inevitable. The mercurial billionaire said the share sale idea was a reaction to a political push to make the ultra-rich pay taxes when prices of stock they hold go up. But analysts say Musk, whose wealth is mostly held in Tesla shares, has $10 billion in taxes coming due to stock options that expire next year

TESLA SHARES SLIDE AFTER POLL RESULT

- At Monday's opening bell, Tesla's stock plunged by 6.4% in the US. Musk is known for roiling markets with ill-advised tweets
- Tesla's market value recently crossed $1 trillion, making Musk, its CEO, the world's richest man as he is the largest shareholder with 17% stock. Musk hasn't disclosed the date of the share sale

Bommai govt does U-turn, reconsiders BSY's policies

Cabinet okays rules, sand to get cheaper

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TO make sand available easily and at a cheaper price, the state cabinet on Monday approved rules and guidelines for the sand policy. Though the policy had been announced by the previous government led by BS Yediyurappa, the guidelines had not been framed. The new rules will allow people to buy the building material online, and also empower panchayats, which can issue permits for sand extraction within their jurisdictions.

After the cabinet meeting, Law and Parliamentary Minister JC Madhu Swamy told the media that the guidelines have been framed for three sources – sand coming from gram panchayat limits, from riverbeds and from the sea. He said, "We have also identified the authorities to give approvals. The government will issue a notification soon."

Guidelines have been framed for three sources -- sand coming from gram panchayat limits, from riverbeds and from the sea. We have identified the authorities to give approvals.

JC Madhu Swamy, Law Minister

At gram panchayats, the price of sand has been fixed at Rs 300 per metric tonne (MT), while sand extracted from river beds and supplied to urban areas will be priced at Rs 700 per MT. Mysuru Mines and Minerals Ltd and Hatti Gold Mines have been given the power to extract sand from river beds.

The State government collects 50 per cent of the royalty levied on sand. Of this, half or 25 per cent will be given to panchayats. If required, additional grants from the remaining 25 per cent will be provided to panchayats to develop roads that are damaged due to the transportation of sand.

An authority will be set up to give permission for extracting sand from river beds. It will act as the enforcement and monitoring agency and the guidelines for the new authority will be issued soon, the minister said. CONTINUED ON: P4

CM looking into Jindal land deal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Government on Monday informed the Karnataka High Court that a decision taken by the previous government headed by then chief minister BS Yeddyurappa to sell 3,667 acres of land to JSW Steels Corporation Pvt Ltd in Ballari for a low price has not been reaffirmed and the present Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai is looking into it.

The Yediyurappa government had taken the decision following a recommendation by a cabinet sub-committee headed by then Major Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar.

Decision taken by the previous govt to sell 3,667 acres of land to JSW Steels Corporation Pvt Ltd in Ballari for a low price has not been reaffirmed and the present CM Basavaraj Bommai is looking into it

Karnataka government

Recording the submission made by the government advocate, a division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum dismissed a public interest litigation questioning the government's decision, saying it does not survive for consideration.

KA Paul, a resident of BM Layout, had filed the PIL, questioning the decision taken by the government on April 26, 2021 to execute the absolute sale deed for the land at Rs 1.22 lakh per acre in favour of JSW Steels.

After hearing the petition on June 7, 2021, the court had asked the government to produce relevant documents. While doing so, the government stated that the decision was not confirmed at subsequent cabinet meetings. The court had made it clear on June 15, 2021 that any action on the decision will be subject to further orders passed in this petition. On July 13, 2021, it directed the additional government advocate to ask whether a government order can be passed for the sale of government property without approval from the cabinet.

The government informed the court on July 19, 2021 that the state will maintain the status quo.

SC wants non-UP former judge to oversee Kheri investigation

KANU SARDA @ New Delhi

UNHAPPY over the progress of the probe in the Lakhimpur Kheri case in UP, the Supreme Court on Monday suggested appointing a retired judge of the Punjab and Haryana High Court to monitor it till the filing of chargesheet in the case.

The court sharply remarked that evidence was being collected in a way to protect one accused, indicating there were attempts to let prime accused Ashish Mishra off the hook. The son of a Union minister, he is under arrest for allegedly mowing down four protesting farmers and a journalist.

The UP government has constituted a one-man probe panel headed by a retired Allahabad High Court judge, but the SC bench was not satisfied.

A bench comprising Chief Justice of India N V Ramana and justices Surya Kant and Hima Kohli expressed concern over possible mixing up of evidence collected in two separate incidents — running over farmers and the consequent lynching of the accused.

"There are two FIRs and evidence collected in one will be used in another.... One set of murders is of farmers, one set is of a journalist and one is of political workers. In the set of political workers, the accused themselves have died. So now witness comes in the third set and gives accused-favouring statement in first case of farmers' death," Justice Kant remarked. He emphasised that the two cases have to be investigated independently. The observation came after the bench perused UP's probe status report.

Why mobile of just one accused seized?

The bench expressed dissatisfaction at the fact that forensic lab reports regarding video evidence have not yet arrived and that the mobile phones of just one of the 12 accused have been seized

Noting that it was not confident about the manner in which evidence was being recorded by the UP Special Investigation Team, the bench said it wanted to appoint former Punjab and Haryana High Court Ranjit Singh or Justice R K Jain to oversee the manner in which statements of witnesses are being recorded.

"We do not want any political overtones and are not confident about the judicial commission set up by you (UP)," the bench told the state government's counsel and senior advocate Harish Salve. It gave them time till Friday to come back with a response in the matter.

RAFALE PROBE

Fake invoices for kickbacks to clinch deal?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Rafale kickbacks scam took a new turn on Monday with French investigative journal Mediapart claiming that bogus invoices were used by manufacturer Dassault Aviation to funnel at least 7.5 million euros in commissions to a middleman to clinch the fighter jet deal with India.

These payments to Sushen Gupta were reportedly made between 2007 and 2012 during the Congress-led UPA rule at the Centre. Till the time of going to press, there was no reaction to the report from either the defence ministry or Dassault.

Mediapart alleged that both the CBI and the Enforcement Directorate had documents to establish the kickbacks in 2018 but chose to sit on them. "This was in the context of the French firm's long and ultimately successful attempt to secure a 7.8 billion-euro-deal in 2016 to sell 36 of its Rafale fighters to India," it said.

The journal had in July reported the appointment of a French judge to lead the highly sensitive judicial investigation into suspected corruption in the inter-governmental jet deal. In the past, both Dassault and the Indian defence ministry had denied allegations of corruption in the contract. And the Supreme Court in 2019 had dismissed petitions seeking a probe into the charges of kickbacks.

BENGALUREANS will have to shell out more for autorickshaw rides from December 1. The minimum fare will go up to Rs 30 from Rs 25, and the charge per kilometre will be increased from Rs 13 to Rs 15.

Reviewing the fares after eight years, the Regional Transport Authority of Bengaluru Urban District on Saturday approved the rise.

Bengaluru Urban DC J Manjunath, who is also the chairman of the Authority, said, "The decision was taken after several rounds of meetings with office-bearers of various unions of auto-rickshaw drivers, who had requested the authority to increase the fares." P2

Child sex abuse cases on the rise in D-K dist

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

OVER the last seven days, seven cases of sexual abuse against minor girls have been reported in Dakshina Kannada district. In one of the cases, the victim was abused by more than one person, while in another, a two-year-old baby was the target.

In 70-80 per cent of such cases, the predators established contact with the minors through mobile phone or social media, said women and children welfare and police officials.

According to them, sexual abuse cases against minors saw a sharp rise during the Covid pandemic as parents were forced to purchase or give their mobile phones and gadgets to youngsters for online classes. Apart from attending classes from home, a majority of the victims also used the gadgets to open accounts in Facebook, Instagram etc which was misused by some youth and miscreants to establish contact with the victims in the guise of friendship.

Deekshit, who is attached with the Child Helpline, said in some cases, the parents came to know about their daughters being sexually abused only after they became pregnant. The incidents being reported with the police are just a tip of iceberg as many parents hesitate to file police complaints fearing social stigma. Even after the FIR is filed, some victims and their parents want to withdraw cases, apparently due to pressure from the community, he added. CONTINUED ON: P7

4 killed in fratricidal firing at CRPF camp

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

A Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) jawan opened fire at the Lingapalli base camp in the strife-torn Sukma district during the wee hours on Monday, killing four men and injuring three others.

Constable Ritesh Ranjan opened indiscriminate fire around 3 am, when about 10 personnel were sleeping inside the barrack that has a capacity of 70-80. The base camp of the CRPF's 50th battalion is about 500 km off Raipur.

"The remaining CRPF men were away on operation. Otherwise the casualties could have been much higher. It seems he was suffering from some psychological distress. A trooper woke him up so that he can attend his duty. But soon after he opened fire from his service weapon on others, most of whom were sleeping. He was then overpowered," a CRPF officer told this newspaper.

Two CRPF men died on the spot and two others died of the bullet injuries while being taken to a hospital.

Two of the three seriously injured jawans were air-lifted to Raipur and the third was taken to Hyderabad. The officer dismissed speculation that Ranjan was enraged because of persistent bullying by other personnel in the camp.

CRPF Director General Kuldiep Singh will arrive in Bastar on Tuesday to take stock of the situation. Senior CRPF officers along with state police have begun a preliminary inquiry after taking Ranjan into custody.

CRPF spokesperson H K Sahu said the injured jawans are out of danger. The reason behind Ranjan's actions is yet to be conclusively ascertained.

The paramilitary force had recently issued a communication to all its formations to identify personnel who are depressed or stressed, and arrange counselling. P9

STONES NOT DEAF

It's rock music at this Gadag temple, visitors go ga ga

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

IT is rock music, rather rocks that make music. A piece of stone lying in front of a temple near Itagi town in Gadag district, without attracting much attention for long, is making news now. A video by a tourist tapping the stone to create music has gone viral on social media sites.

Similar stones, which are called lithophonic rocks, have been used in the famous musical pillars of Hampi. They are also found at Neelgund Hills near Mulgund town, Basaveshwar temple near Itagi, Mugali in Ron taluk and Bhimambika temple in Itagi.

With the video going viral, people from Ron, Nargund, Gajendragad and Gadag are thronging the Itagi temple to check the musical notes emanating from the stone.

Village elders call them Gangaalagallu. Gangal means steel or metal plate used for lunch and kallu means stone. When one strikes the stone, it sounds like hitting a metal plate.

Sharanappa Mallapur, a resident of Mugali village, said, "We have seen musical rocks for long. Some elders said these rocks have been lying here for the last 80-90 years. Some sculptors had got them here to make a Basavanna idol, but they stopped after coming to know that they were musical rocks."

Shivalingasarja Desai of Itagi, who works as a biotechnology professor at BVB Engineering College in Hubballi, said, "These stones have rich deposits of iron and other metals, that is the reason they make these sounds. Of course, more studies are needed."

Pre-schools open, classes on alternate days

Schools follow shift system, stick to Covid norms

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

LKG, UKG and anganwadis (pre-schools by the women and child development department) opened in Karnataka today, with a number of them opting for batch-wise classes to maintain the physical distancing protocols.

The government and private pre-schools were decked up with balloons, diyas and flowers to welcome reluctant tiny tots who have left home for school after 19 months.

Parents at Anganwadis (for children from three to six years of age), were oriented about the curriculum that will be followed this year, and the COVID protocols that will be adhered to. Consent letters were also sought from these parents.

"Parents so far have been asking when would Anganwadis open, and finally they did today. It was painful to watch children simply play on streets with each other and not come to schools, while their parents worked as domestic workers in other houses," said Shruti, ICDS supervisor of Wilson Garden circle.

Padmavathamma, Founder and President of the Karnataka State Anganwadi Workers Rights Protection Committee, told TNIE that, "In the State, there was about 25 percent attendance, keeping in mind that children were attending classes in shifts to maintain COVID norms.

"Young children don't wear masks in Anganwadis, while their parents are expected to be vaccinated. Ration kits continue to be doled out, as classes are held for just half a day," as per sources.

Uma Mahadevan, Principal Secretary Department of Women and Child Development told TNIE that, "The response was good on day one."

Meanwhile Pruthvi Banwasi, Secretary, Karnataka Council of Pre-Schools, that has 2,000 schools under it, stated, "As a positive sign, there have been enquiries for admission. About 40 percent of the pre-schools under the council, are now trying to find a well-ventilated and suitable building to resume their activities. Teachers are ready, so are students, as are the materials for learning, but buildings are being finalised in the remaining 60 percent of the schools," said Banwasi adding that all schools are set to open by December.

Many pre-schools had vacated their premises during the Covid lockdown, and were said to have put all their learning paraphernalia locked up in godowns.

FasTag on NICE Road to put an end to long queues

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FROM the second week of November, commuters can use their FasTag card on the Nandi Infrastructure Corridor Enterprises (NICE) Road, which is amongst the busiest roads. The officials from NICE Limited are now finalising the details and technical glitches before officially introducing it for all vehicles, just like the National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) roads.

The absence of the FasTag has been leading to long queues at toll plazas, as only cash is accepted to use the pass through. Sources in NICE told The New Indian Express, "The rates will be the same as what they are at present. The mode of payment will now be either cash or through FasTag smart cards. A detailed meeting was held with the ministry of national highway authority officials, state government and transport officials. The MoU was signed on September 30, for introducing FasTag in IISc roads. Trials have been going on since last two weeks. The MoU was signed with the Indian Highway Management Company Limited (IHMCL)."

Earlier in March, FasTag was to be introduced on NICE Road, but according to the Public Works Department, it was not implemented because the company had violated the contract terms and conditions. In the council meeting, PWD minister Govind Karjol had also stated the same. Staffers in NICE Limited noted that the problem earlier was because of coordination issues between the State and the Centre. "Since the project was a state government project, many details needed to be ironed out. The money paid through FasTag will be given to the company through the National Electronic Toll Collection (NETC) system," the official added.

90 days to recalibrate auto meters after hike

REPRESENTATIVES of various unions said, "The auto fares were increased last on December 17, 2013. Since then, the ticket fares of BMTC, KSRTC, other public and private transport buses have gone up with the rising fuel prices. Also, the price of autorickshaws, registration charges, insurance premiums, sparepart costs, and LPG gas rate have risen. Besides, drivers registered with online aggregators have to pay a 20 per cent commission. Private finance companies are charging more than 25 per cent interest for auto loans. The minimum fare had already gone up to Rs 30 in Mangaluru and Udupi."

The authority has instructed auto drivers to display the revised fares prominently in their vehicles and given them 90 days till February 28, 2022 to recalibrate their meters.

NOW, COUGH UP MORE

	OLD	NEW
Minimum fare (Upto 2 Kms)	₹25	₹30
Per KM after 2 kms	₹13	₹15
Passenger luggage - No charges up to 20 kgs
20 to 50 kgs	₹2	₹5

NO CHANGES IN NIGHT AND WAITING CHARGES

No change has been made in the waiting charge, which is free up to five minutes and Rs. 5 for every 15 minutes. Also, night charges, from 10 pm to 5 am, will continue to be the same, which is 50 per cent extra of the fare.

It's good that they increased the price because it's only fair after how much LPG prices have gone up. I don't really have any worries that people will stop using autos because of the price hike

Sewage water floods homes as BWSSB sits on residents' plea

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

FOR about three weeks now, residents of 2nd Cross, Nanjamma Layout in Manorayanapalya, R T Nagar, have spent hours baling out sewage water from their kitchens and bedrooms whenever it rains. The residents say they are bearing the brunt of faulty pipeline work by the BWSSB. A written complaint, signed by nearly two dozen families to the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) authorities a fortnight ago has not helped.

While residents point to a drainage pipeline connected with the Rajakaluve (SWD) in the wrong direction as the reason for the flooding, a BWSSB official claimed that a pipeline had broken recently and that it would be set right immediately.

Among those who have been having a torrid time is retired insurance company official, K B Manja Naik. A very upset Naik told TNIE, "My wife Yashoda is 66 years and is a cancer patient. Imagine how tough it is for senior citizens like us when sewage water enters our rooms and we have to spend time and effort clearing it." He asked angrily, "Is this a Silicon City? For us it is like a garbage city."

Explaining the issue, Pramod Bhat, another resident and marketing executive with a private firm said that the issue was the result of the drainage pipeline connected to the Rajakaluve against the flow of water, causing the sewage to gush out when it rains. "The issue dates back to nearly 12 years. But there were very few houses then and it did not come to the fore. The area is full of houses now and the volume of sewage too is more. The stench is awful and people are forced to bear with it as they cannot leave their own homes."

Assistant Executive Engineer, BWSSB, R T Nagar, L Harikumar, to whom the written complaint had been submitted, seemed to have not even looked into the letter. "You send across the numbers of a few people and I will look into the issue. It comes under the Storm Water department," he intially told this reporter. When informed that a detailed letter had been submitted to him on October 25 with the phone numbers of residents and a copy sent to him, Harikumar quickly added, "We will look into it first thing in the morning. Before 9.30 am, our staff will visit the spot. A pipeline (sub main one) got blocked because of some stones inside it. We will take action".

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

09th November: Sagittarian patterns hover helpfully, encouraging adventurous energy and raw creativity. In my opinion many Sagittarians have a sort of sixth sense which enables them to know what's really happening even when nobody explains it. Maybe we will all share in something of their imaginative world today.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Continue to play for time and don't let anyone else force the pace. This is a very special moment for you as far as your personal creativity is concerned and the last thing you want to do is let anyone else dictate your movements for you, especially if they've picked up the wrong end of the stick.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You are now officially in a period of maximum domestic uncertainty. Let me tell you now that friction will only develop if you battle to keep things as they are. If you accept and even initiate change over the next two months, the consequences could be miraculous.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Get down to some serious work as soon as you can. By serious, I don't mean that it shouldn't be fun, but that anything you do now will be tied in to your destiny. I'd also advise a spot of day-dreaming if required! You might think that this is wasting time, but it's a great way to create space for new ideas.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Once you've dealt with financial matters, probably no more than routine shopping, you'll be free to let your mind wander. Overseas contacts seem to be important, which means that a family member far away is waiting to hear from you. Plus, an adventurous possibility is on the way.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
To be forewarned, as they say, is to be forearmed. It's therefore important to point out that even though you are entering a phase of unparalleled optimism, some of your hopes may be unrealistic. You must sort out what is possible from what is not.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The following applies to your life over the next two months, so don't forget it: you are increasingly likely to feel exploited or undermined and will tend to blame other people, yet the cause, and hence the solution, lies with you. Once you've taken that on board then you'll be well on the way to finding a solution.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The day seems to be divided into two halves, and you can swing to extremes either favouring self-indulgence or putting the emphasis on work. Certain people are convinced that you have a lazy streak, and now may be a good time to prove them right! Don't let them pressurise you!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Don't complain if you have been disappointed financially. There will be plenty of chances to make up for it later on, perhaps within a few days. Actually, self-indulgence should be a priority, perhaps because it's when you're enjoying yourself that you come up with the answers to rather serious questions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
It's bound to be some time before you can fully recover from past disturbances, but, in almost exactly one week, you should be able to more than make up for one particular mistake. In fact, it's an astrological law that each time the same opportunity returns, we make better of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Others may make extravagant gestures, but you ought to be the one to call time on reckless financial adventures. Every single penny, cent, rupee or peset a you spend must be designed to earn two back in the future. You can't guarantee success, but you can do your best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
While one very important planet, Saturn, urges you to dig your heels in, this could be a risky strategy. For the next twelve weeks, compromise and total flexibility must be an essential part of your strategy. Follow the Jupiterian path - the way of hope and optimism.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Slowly but surely, your confidence is starting to return. You should soon feel strong enough to make important arrangements and plot the next stage of a health and fitness programme. You also need to keep your mind in trim, so you might be seriously investigating a new interest.

State sees 18K breakthrough cases, 130 deaths

Most showed mild symptoms, no clarity if patients infected after first or second dose of Covid-19 vaccination

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

AROUND 18,842 breakthrough Covid-19 infections and 130 deaths were reported in Karnataka, as per data available with the Health and Family Welfare department. The 'breakthrough' cases refer to infections despite taking the Covid vaccine. The data is collected by health officers who call patients and hospitals and hence, this data is not entirely accurate, officials said.

"In Karnataka, 89 per cent of the population is vaccinated with the first dose. The number of breakthrough infections, their severity and number of fatalities is low, compared to what we saw in the second wave. After taking two doses, breakthrough infections are even fewer. People should come forward and take both vaccine doses as Covid-19 hasn't yet gone," said Dr Arundhathi Chandrashekar, managing director, National Health Mission. She said people need to get tested if they report symptoms despite taking the vaccine, as there is a chance of spreading the virus to others.

The available data does not show whether the breakthrough infections happened after the first or second dose. The department is trying to put together a system, wherein breakthrough cases are integrated with Covid-19 war room data to ensure accuracy.

At Victoria Hospital, doctors observed that the severity of the disease was very mild in those who were vaccinated with both doses. "These patients did not require admission. In only one or two cases were people admitted to the ICU, resulting in one death. Those who received only one dose needed admission. Breakthrough infections may not be a sign of waning vaccine immunity but may be due to a different strain of the virus, or may depend on individual immunity," shared Dr

Smitha Segu, nodal officer for Covid-19 at Bangalore Medical College and Research Institute, of which Victoria Hospital is a part.

We need clarity if the 130 breakthrough deaths happened after the first dose or second dose, pointed out Dr C Nagaraj, member of the Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee and director of Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Chest Diseases.

"The deaths post vaccine are negligible in number. People may get infected but it is not severe. Instead of concentrating on booster doses, the state intends to focus on getting more people vaccinated with the second dose, as coverage is less than 50 per cent now. People need to be motivated to take the second dose," Dr Nagaraj said.

COVID SCARS: KIDS SPEAK OF CHILD MARRIAGE, ONLINE CLASSES, BEGGARY

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

THE Covid-19 pandemic has thrown up a slew of problems for children across Karnataka and India: Mental health, child marriages, child labour and inaccessible facilities.

Students like Aradhya (16) and Veeresh (17) struggle to understand what the future holds for them after a tough one-and-half years at home. These two student representatives aired their concerns to Uma Mahadevan, Principal Secretary, Department of Women and Child Development, and Empowerment of Differently Abled and Senior Citizens, at the launch of public hearings for children on Monday.

Aradhya, a resident of Old Baiyyappanahalli, highlighted issues that plagued her and her friends during the pandemic. She was witness to at least five child marriages planned in four localities in Bengaluru, to lessen their parents' burden. Children had lost interest in studies due to the switch to online classes, and street sexual harassment was increasing, she said. "These are issues I've faced, especially harassment on my way to school," she told TNIE. A high dropout rate among boys has led to this. She mentioned areas in Jayanagar and JP Nagar where rape cases were so high that police were hesitant to investigate. "If police are scared, how can you expect children to walk here?" she asked.

Veeresh, who was working as a mason until recently, highlighted issues in slums, like the rising number of child beggars -- either dropouts or those pulled out of school by parents to make up for lost income. "I've seen small children troubled by online classes, so many just give up, some because they want to earn money to help their families," he said, and also highlighted poor water resources and road infrastructure.

Numerous NGOs and schools representing disabled children also aired their grievances. Erishyad, a wheelchair-bound child with Mobility India, a rehabilitation centre, said, "Online classes were started but were inaccessible, so I couldn't attend. The government hasn't supported us in providing resources like wheelchairs. I hope to get some help."

Umme Hani (14) was facing issues with her hand during the lockdown. "I was able to procure a sling, thanks to the centre, but the government should provide it. I live in an urban area and faced difficulty, what about children in rural areas?" she asked. She said her family no longer receives pensions and her mother lost her job during the pandemic.

A representative from the centre highlighted the difficulties people with disabilities face as medical certificates no longer work, and they need to apply for Unique Disability ID cards. The public hearing was organised by Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights, which hopes to hold hearings in each district this month.

CELEBRATION TIME

125 years on, Minto keeps vision clear

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

SHRIRAM BN

MINTO Ophthalmic Institute aka Minto Hospital, which had its beginnings in a tiny clinic in Chickpet in Bengaluru, and then shifted to a small lodge in Lalbagh, is celebrating its 125th anniversary.

Dr Sujatha Rathod, hospital director, traced the history of Minto. "On November 9, 1886, the hospital started as a dispensary called 'Bangalore Eye Hospital' in a small building in Chickpet. In 1903, the foundation stone for the administrative and in-patient block was laid by Sree Krishnaraja Wadiyar Bahadur and was expanded in 1917 to a 100-bed hospital. It is now an internationally acclaimed eye hospital," Dr Sujatha said. Infrastructure was upgraded in 1961 with 200 beds, and PG courses were also started here in 1962. In 1981, the hospital was upgraded as the Regional Institute of Ophthalmology. The hospital, which started with treating nine patients, is now patronised by more than 1 lakh patients every year from Karnataka and neighbouring states.

The hospital has the biggest paediatric ophthalmology unit in Karnataka.

During the plague outbreak in 1898 in Bengaluru, it was used as an isolation hospital. Now, during the Covid-19 pandemic, the hospital is actively involved in handling patients to treat Mucormycosis (black fungus) cases.

Cabinet gives nod; Winter session of legislature to be held for 10 days in Belagavi in Dec

Residents of Kittur town celebrate the State Government's decision to rename Mumbai-Karnataka as Kittur Karnataka, on Monday | KPN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru, Belagavi

TAKING a cue from the previous B S Yediyurappa-led government, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's Cabinet on Monday approved the renaming of the Mumbai-Karnataka region, consisting of seven districts, as Kittur Karnataka. The Yediyurappa government had, in 2019, renamed the Hyderabad-Karnataka region as Kalyana Karnataka.

The Kittur Karnataka region will include Belagavi, Bagalakot, Vijayapura, Gadag, Haveri and Hubballi-Dharwad, said Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy. With this, a long-pending demand of the region has been fulfilled.

Within a few days after Yediyurappa took oath as CM in July 2019, his government renamed the Hyderabad-Karnataka region, comprising six of districts Bidar, Kalaburagi, Yadgir, Raichur, Koppal and Ballari, as Kalyana Karnataka. Recently, Bommai had announced renaming of Mumbai-Karnataka as Kittur Karnataka and had promised to place the proposal before the cabinet for approval.

The Bommai Cabinet also approved holding the legislature session at the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi in December. The session is likely from December 13 to December 24 and the dates will be finalised soon. The last session was conducted at the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in 2018 when H D Kumaraswamy was Chief Minister.

Meanwhile, in a first of its kind initiative, the State Government has arranged for live webcast of the the winter session proceedings for the benefit of the general public.

Speaking to the media in Belagavi on Monday after inspecting the preparations at Suvarna Vidhana Soudha, Legislative Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti instructed the officials concerned to take necessary steps to facilitate webcasting. The final dates for the 10-day session will be decided by the CM, he said.

As the e-office system is already in place in every department, Internet and other basic arrangements should be made at Suvarna Vidhana Soudha within a week, Horatti directed the officials. He said video-conferencing facilities should also be made available at the meeting hall of the Soudha.

Belagavi Deputy Commissioner MG Hiremath said preparatory meetings will be held in the run-up to the winter session.

Panchayats can now supply sand to poor at subsidised rates

"WITH the new policy, sand will be available easily and at a reduced cost. Price per load (one lorry) is expected to be around Rs 10,000 to Rs 12,000 which is much cheaper than the earlier price. Royalty will be nominal at around Rs 60 per MT," he said.

In Dakshina Kannada, some people used to get sand by diving into the sea. It will be allowed as the quantity of sand extracted is less. But they cannot use machinery, he clarified.

Panchayats are allowed to supply sand to the poor at subsidised rates. "Also, panchayats are given permission to allow the poor to carry river sand on bicycles for construction," he said.

On the environmental impact, he said that the government has identified specific areas from where sand can be extracted. District-level monitoring committees will restrict the depth at which sand can be taken and will also look into environmental impact, he added.

Clarity on recruitment policy

Law and Parliamentary Minister JC Madhu Swamy said that there was some confusion on filling up vacancies in government jobs. At present, 50 per cent is through direct recruitment, while the rest is through promotions. In both categories, recruitments would cross 50 per cent, causing confusion. "We are bringing in a policy restricting the number of posts to be filled through direct and promotion-based recruitments for each sanctioned post," he said.

Retd judge to clear Rs 50 crore pre-tender

The Cabinet agreed to constitute a committee headed by a retired high court judge along with two technical experts to approve tenders that are estimated at Rs 50 crore or more. Tenders can be called only after the committee's approval, which is expected to streamline the process and bring in more transparency. The committee has to either approve or reject a proposal within 15 days. "All department works that are over Rs 50 crore have to come to the committee, which will be independent," the minister added.

BJP conspiracy to brand me casteist: Siddaramaiah

Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah listens patiently to a supporter in Mysuru on Monday | UDAYSHANKAR S

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

WITH Dalit leaders in the BJP accusing former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah of insulting them and demanding an apology from him over his remarks, the Ahinda leader on Monday alleged that the saffron party has crafted a conspiracy to brand him as castiest.

Speaking after inaugurating the Varasiddi Vinayaka temple and guest house at Kanaka Bhavan premises in Mandya, he said that the BJP had twisted his statement to suit its convenience and added that an attempt is being made to brand him as casteist by a party which itself believes in caste politics. The ruling party is "intolerant" towards him for the sole reason that he had served as Chief Minister for a full five-year term, next only after D Devaraj Urs, he claimed.

Clarifying that he had only said that a few Dalit leaders had joined a political party which had claimed to change the Constitution, he stressed that his remarks have been misinterpreted only to instigate his followers and well-wishers. He also pointed out that he had ordered birth anniversary celebrations of social reformers and great personalities like Kempe Gowda, Kittur Rani Chennamma, Tipu Sultan, sage Bhagiratha, Lord Krishna and Jain saints.

"I will not be affected if my portraits are set on fire. It will not affect my people or those who love me. We should build a society based on the ethos of equality and keep caste at bay. You should be extra conscious about these people who cannot tolerate that I became Chief Minister," he added. "Senseless people are making baseless charges and questioning my contribution to the Kuruba community. There are poor in all communities and I believe in the overall development of the poor in all communities," he insisted.

Siddaramaiah also called upon people not to join the BJP saying that the party is against backward classes. Seeking support for the Congress to come out with policies for the poor, he said there is a trend in favour of his party in the state. "I am confident that our government will bounce back to power," he claimed.

Not Siddu, but JDS snubbed minority leaders: Haris

ENS @ Bengaluru

CONGRESS leader N A Haris, on Monday hit out at JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy for accusing former CM Siddaramaiah of snubbing minority leaders of the Grand Old Party. "The recent developments in the run-up to the Hanagal and Sindagi by-polls have exposed who is snubbing minorities and the minority leadership in Karnataka," Haris told the media here. The JDS had fielded minority candidates in Hanagal and Sindagi but both lost their deposits.

The MLA said that only the Congress believes in social justice and has groomed minority leaders. Newly appointed Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee Minority Cell chairman Abdul Jabbar too echoed Haris' views and said, "People of the state know who is working to safeguard the interests of the minority leadership. Did the JDS give adequate representation to the minorities (in the cabinet and boards and boards and corporations) when it was in power?"

On murmurs of senior Congress leader and MLC CM Ibrahim planning to join the JDS, the duo maintained that they will speak to him in this regard. "Everyone knows there is freedom to express opinions in the Congress. The party has not meted out any injustice to Ibrahim," claimed Jabbar.

Jabbar will assume charge as the chairman of the KPCC minority cell at a rally to be held at Nalpad Pavilion on Palace Grounds in Bengaluru on November 16.

Gowda takes potshots at Cong over its Mekedatu padayatra

CM: Will take up project after clearing hurdles

CM Basavaraj Bommai on Monday admitted there was some legal hurdle, besides obtaining the Central Water Commission's permission, with regard to the Mekedatu project and once they are cleared, the project will be executed. "The BJP government has been honestly pursuing the legal battle in the court of law", he said. "The Congress, which was in power, took several years to prepare the Detailed Project Report and failed to implement it swiftly. Now they are resorting to pressure tactics by taking out a 'padayatra', which is unwarranted," he said.

Cong padayatra is politically motivated: KSE

RDPR Minister KS Eshwarappa on Monday reiterated that the State Government is committed to realising the Mekedatu project across the Cauvery. He said the Congress has planned a padayatra only for political purposes. "Who told them we are not implementing the project? Politicising every issue will not help in the state's development. If the Congress wants to go ahead with its padayatra, we have no issues. Maybe the party wants to give an impression that it is still active and relevant," he said.

Journalist P Ramaiah, Janata Dal (Secular) supremo HD Deve Gowda and former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy launch the first edition of 'Janata Patrike' in Bengaluru on Monday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after the Congress in Karnataka said that it will take out a padayatra from the Mekedatu project site to Bengaluru to put pressure on the State and Union Governments for its speedy implementation, Janata Dal (Secular) supremo HD Deve Gowda accused the Grand Old Party of being in a hurry to take credit for the project.

He also pointed out that his party has already submitted a memorandum to the Governor.

The former PM was addressing the media on the sidelines of the JDS' eight-day organisational workshop at JP Bhavan here on Saturday. "The Congress, in order to gain political mileage, has decided to take out the padayatra well ahead of us. But only the Congress cannot claim credit for it. People have seen Siddaramaiah coming to me seeking advice over the Cauvery river water dispute," Gowda elaborated.

He regretted that the JDS lost the party's office to the Congress--- referring to the one on Race Course Road which now houses the Congress Sevadal office--- for various reasons. "We had put up a united front as the Janata Party in the past. If our aim had materialised, the Congress would have disappeared from at least nine states," he claimed.

'Janata Patrike' released

On the occasion, veteran journalist P Ramaiah released the first edition of 'Janata Patrike', edited by former CM and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy. Kumaraswamy asserted that the monthly Kananda magazine will be people's voice and will not publish "one-sided stories". "All the parties have had their own publications to reach out to people and now we have our own," he said.

'Cong spreading rumours on leadership change'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE BJP state core committee meeting on Tuesday is likely to discuss the party's performance in the recent bypolls and corrective measures required to be taken ahead of a series of elections in the state. In the bypolls, the party failed to retain Hanagal Assembly segment in Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's home district Haveri, while it managed to win Sindagi by a big margin.

BJP National General Secretary in-charge of Karnataka, Arun Singh, who arrived in the city on Monday evening to attend the core committee meeting, told the media that Bommai, ministers and party leaders had worked hard to ensure the victory of Shivaraj Sajjanar in Hanagal, but they lost by a narrow margin.

Singh accused the Congress of spreading rumours about leadership change in Karnataka.

"The Congress is spreading rumours about a change of our state unit president and the CM. The Congress has lost its relevance across the country and its leaders in the state are spreading such rumours," he added. He also dismissed the Congress allegations in the Bitcoin case. "Bommai has taken prompt action in the case," he said.

Singh said that during Tuesday's meeting, they will discuss measures to further strengthen the party organisation at the booth level, preparations for zilla and taluk panchayat elections.

The meeting will be attended by Singh, Basavaraj Bommai, BJP state unit president Nalin Kumar Kateel and other senior leaders. They are likely to analyse reasons for the party's failure to retain the Hanagal seat despite the CM himself camping in the constituency for over a week.

Many in the party consider the bypoll result as a wake-up call to the party ahead of a series of elections.

Govt keen on utilising 75 tmcft water under UKP Stage 3 from June 2022

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR
@ Belagavi

THE State Government has created infrastructure to utilise 75 tmcft of water of the 130 tmcft earmarked for the Upper Krishna Project 3rd Stage (UKP-III) project under pressure from farmers. The State Government proposes to provide 75 tmcft of water to farmers from June 2022 onwards for irrigation in the drought-prone areas of Kalyana Karnataka.

The counsel for Karnataka informed the Supreme Court on Monday that 60% of irrigation infrastructure in the command area of 5.94 lakh hectares will be ready by June 2022 for utilisation of 75 tmcft. However, the stakeholders in the Krishna river water sharing — Andhra Pradesh and Telangana — have sought two weeks' time from the court to reply.

The Krishna Water Dispute Tribunal (KWDT) had passed an order for sharing of Krishna water among three riparian states — Karnataka, AP and Telangana — on December 30, 2010. Of the 173 tmcft of water allocated to Karnataka by the tribunal, a provision has been made for utilisation of 130 tmcft of water under UKP-III.

The State Government says that by utilising 75 tmcft in the drought-prone area, socio-economic conditions of the farmers will undergo dramatic changes

According to sources, the utilisation of 130 tmcft under UKP-III involves infrastructure development like increasing the present storage capacity of Almatti reservoir, creation of canals, etc. The UKP-III works are split into 9 sub-components — Mulwad lift irrigation scheme (LIS), Chimmalgi LIS, Indi LIS Extension, Rampur LIS Extension, Koppal LIS, Herkal LIS, Mallabad LIS, NRBC extension, and Bhima flank (extension of Shahpur branch canal of Narayanpur left bank canal).

The State Government has accorded administrative approval for UKP-III, which was estimated at Rs 17,207 crore, on January 24, 2012. However, the works could not be fully taken up on account of delay in the publication of the modified final order, dated November 29, 2013. The cost was consequently revised in 2017 to Rs 51,149 crore by granting administrative approval on October 9, 2017. So far, until the end of September 2021, Rs 13,321 crore has been spent on the project towards the construction of civil infrastructure, land acquisition, resettlement and rehabilitation, sources added.

A delay of further four years since 2017 has led to an increase of the project cost to Rs 65,000 crore. The State Government says that by utilising 75 tmcft in the drought-prone area, the socio-economic conditions of the farmers will undergo dramatic changes.

Don't take courts lightly: HC to officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AFTER the High Court came down heavily on the State Government for taking courts for granted, the Advocate General on Monday not only apologised for the absence of officials but also assured that their presence will be ensured before the court whenever there is an order for their appearance.

IN THE HC

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum directed the AG, Prabhuling K Navadagi, to instruct the Chief Secretary to issue a circular to all the concerned on the assurance and to avoid inconvenience to courts due to non-compliance of orders. The court also asked him to ensure decorum by officials who appear before the court with regard to dress code.

The court took serious objection as the Principal Secretary to the Housing Department, Ravishankar, did not appear before it and the government advocate was not aware of the order seeking the presence of the officer. The court asked the AG to appear in the afternoon and pulled up the state government. Ravishankar too appeared and tendered an apology for the inconvenience caused. Then the court asked him not to repeat it and spoil his career.

When the issue of houses for the poor was taken up, the court orally observed that neither the government advocate was not in a position to reply nor the officer was present. "You will have to ask the government to issue a circular to ensure the presence of the officer, whether there is a cabinet meeting or any other situation...We will not tolerate it, don't compel us to pass any such order to send the officers to jail or direct the DGP to secure their presence. We are very much confident that we can ensure compliance of the orders," it said.

"If they (officers) don't understand, we can make them understand. The Principal Secretary has taken court so lightly. How can they take the high court lightly? This is a very, very bad situation," the court noted.

3 lawyers sworn in as addl HC judges

Three new additional Karnataka High Court judges -- Justices Anant Ramanath Hegde, Siddaiah Rachaiah and KS Hemalekha -- assumed office on Monday. Karnataka State Bar Council Chairman L Srinivasa Babu welcomed the new judges at a function held on the premises of the high court. All the three news judges were appointed on November 3, 2021. Justice Hemalekha said that Indian women have excelled in all walks of life. "My induction indicates the honour bestowed on Indian women. I will do my best to live up to the expectations of all and society at large", she said. She thanked Justice BV Nagarathna, Judge of the Supreme Court, for having inspired many including her.

Heavy rain in TN forces people to stay indoors

Occupancy levels of TNSTC, SETC buses stand at less than 40%

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

WITH incessant rains affecting normal life across the State on Monday, buses and trains ran with only a handful of passengers. Occupancy levels of TNSTC and SETC buses operated from and to Chennai stood at less than 40 per cent. As per official records, over 6.5 lakh commuters left Chennai ahead of the Deepavali festival. However, in the wake of Chief Minister MK Stalin's request and forecast of continuous rains, many seemingly have postponed travel plans, said transport sources. Monday and Tuesday have been declared as public holidays for Chennai, Chengalpattu, Kancheepuram and Thiruvallur districts.

SThangam of Mettur, a daily wage worker who returned to Chennai said, "Many in my hometown fear that Chennai may see a situation similar to 2015 and hotels may be shut. We fully depend on hotels for our food. As we don't have the option to cook here, my friends and relatives said they will return next week."

Given the high fuel price, transport corporations can meet operational cost only if buses operate at 70 per cent occupancy. "Since afternoon, branch managers have cut trips in many routes to reduce the losses," said a transport department employee.

A TNSTC ultra deluxe bus driver at CMBT said, "Per trip collection between Chennai and Puducherry stands at ₹7,000 on regular days. However, on Monday, it fell to ₹3,500."

GLOBAL WARMING

THE COASTS TO BEAR THE BRUNT

WHAT was assumed as a possibility has now become a reality -- global warming and climate change. Scientists felt the impulse nearly a decade ago, post the industrial revolution and its after-effects. First, it was acid rain, followed by gradual increase in average temperature, followed by melting of ice and swelling of seas. All these are now contributing to the climate change impact on coastal communities. Added to this are unscientific developmental activities and policies influenced by pressure from rich and influential people.

Traditionally, the coastline belonged to fishermen and their associates involved in processing, marketing and fishery linked jobs. Mechanisation, overfishing, indiscriminate fishing, fishing during breeding season, reduced mesh size, are some of the human causes of declining fish catch.

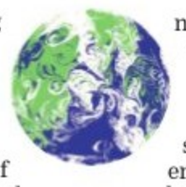
These are being addressed in the form of fishing holidays, regulation of mesh size, regulation of engine power, ban on light fishing, bull trawling etc. But these are hardly monitored and the capable violate laws, while innocent traditional fishermen suffer.

However, there are other issues that need to be viewed seriously. They include an increased number of cyclones, acidification of the sea, migration of population due to increasing temperature and rise in sea level. All these are global issues that have to be addressed by policy makers from all over the globe, and implemented locally by providing proper education and support.

Coastal Regulation Notification 1991 was an effort to safeguard the interest of fishermen and other coastal populations, considering several issues that include climate change too.

Notable features are marking 500 metres from the shoreline as 'No Development Zone (NDZ)', protection of ecologically sensitive regions, mangroves etc. Unfortunately, this notification saw a series of amendments and fresh notifications to favour the rich and influential in the name of development, tourism promotion etc. Private players are entering the coastal regions, and fishermen are victims of all these developments.

DR VENKATRAY NAYAK,
Retd Prof of Marine Biology and Honorary Secretary, Uttara Kannada Zilla Vignana Kendra



Coastal erosion is a natural phenomenon occurring all over the world, and is seasonal. The erosion is due to change in the current monsoon pattern. These erosions are temporary and accretion occurs within three months when the current pattern changes. Increase in the impact and area covered is due to human interference in the form of dredging, construction of sea walls, encroachment of the sea etc. All these affect traditional fishery.

Sagara Malaisa project which is totally unscientific. When the existing infrastructure is not even utilised, plans for further expansion is uncalled for. The question is, why such a development when it does not favour local communities?

'Speedy convictions needed now'

RENNI D'Souza, Chairman, Child Welfare Committee, Dakshina Kannada, said that such cases have risen after the pandemic with most of the victims being in 12-17 years of age. But he feels that as compared to the past, many victims and their families are coming forward to file complaints. "In the first two months of this year, 66 POCSO cases were reported in the district. But in the last two months, there has been a sudden spike. In majority of the incidents, the accused were known to the victims, like their relatives and neighbours," he added.

A senior police official said that speedy convictions would put a lid on such incidents, but POCSO special courts have failed to serve the purpose. More the delay in trial, more likely of victims turning hostile because most POSCO offences are committed by family members or people known to the victims.

Five of a family die in suicide bid

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kolar

FIVE members of a family, who consumed poison fearing police investigation into a kidnap case of a nine-day-old baby, died at a Kolar hospital on Monday. Five members of the family had consumed poison on Sunday.

Inspector General of Police (Central Range) M Chandra Shekar said, "They should have cooperated with the police which would have solved the issue and traced the baby, instead they took the extreme step," he said.

Sources said that Sumitha (20), a paramedical student, gave birth 10 days ago. She handed over the child to Geetha and Pushpa. Later, when she enquired about the whereabouts of her baby, the duo couldn't answer her. She later lodged a complaint with the police. Based on the complaint, the police registered a case of kidnap against Geetha and Pushpa.

PENTAGON REPORT AND THE WOLF WARRIOR NEXT DOOR

It's an unnervingly transitional world we live in, any which way it's looked at. The old order is breaking, and the new order taking shape offers no comfort. The strategic-diplomatic-military space exemplifies this the best. Domestic politics is inflecting cross-country transactions everywhere, especially when it comes to behemoths like the US, China and India.

Much of the belligerence Beijing is displaying in the Asia-Pacific and elsewhere is in a way linked to the 20th National Party Congress of the Chinese Communist Party slated for October 2022, an event that would decide whether Xi Jinping stays on for a third term (as of now, there are no contrary signs). Globally, China also seems to be priming itself for the big role it envisages for the nation by 2049—the centenary of the People's Republic of China is the target date by which it aims to conclusively replace the US as the world's most dominant economic, military and strategic power. The Pentagon annual report that delineates and contextualises China's expansionism brings this alive in a worrying manner: Imagine a China with an even more upscaled, modernised army, brimming with nuclear warheads, winning away friends and destabilising the American spheres of influence. This, naturally, cannot happen without India's own neighbourhood getting deeply impacted. What's playing out in the western theatre and around the borders in Arunachal Pradesh is nothing but part of Beijing's larger muscle-flexing.

China has two sources of insecurity—Tibet and Xinjiang. One abuts India all along its north, the other too is proximate. We may end up paying for that by getting our own pain point, Pakistan, activated. The scale on which China is both physically enlarging its defence capabilities and deploying AI technology for espionage and intelligence is unprecedented. Even if it does not accept all that is suggested in the Pentagon report, India must digest this: The Wolf Warrior lurks next door, and it's there for good, Quad or no Quad.

THE FUTILITY OF DEMONETISATION

Demonetisation was a blunder of epic proportions—and no amount of spin by pro-government economists, analysts and corporate bigwigs would exonerate the Centre for wrecking the economy, and worse, forcing millions into the abyss. When demonetisation was announced five years ago on 8 November 2016, India's cash-to-GDP ratio was around 12%—and the government considered that excessive. At that time, the same was around 13% for Japan, 10% for the Euro Zone and 8% for the US.

While the Centre argued that with one stone (demonetisation), it had killed many birds (black money, terrorism, counterfeit currency and many more 'evils' that the government came up with), none of it came to fruition, and the country was left with a broken economy. The futility of the whole exercise was proved when in a report in August 2018, the Reserve Bank of India admitted that 99.3% of the demonetised currency notes of ₹500 and ₹1,000 were returned to the banks, belying the claim that a large number of those currencies wouldn't come back to the system.

The GDP growth rate has been clocking an underwhelming below 7% ever since (barring a couple of quarters in Financial Year 2018). And while other factors have also contributed to the declining pace of GDP growth of the country, the lagging effect of demonetisation on the economy cannot be denied. While the Union government tried hard by coming up with flimsy arguments like higher tax collection and increased use of mobile transactions post-demonetisation, none of it was convincing enough to justify the notes ban. And now that India's cash-to-GDP ratio has increased to 14.5% (₹29.44 lakh crore of cash with the public as per the latest RBI report), one wonders what the government of the day was thinking when it decided to withdraw 85% of sovereign-guaranteed currencies in circulation.

We should create an ecosystem to let every language thrive, both in the physical and digital world. Let's remember that some need focus and care to get them back on track

LET THE MYRIAD OF INDIAN LANGUAGES BE

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults Inc

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Passion is a fire. It can cook up a tasty meal. It can equally burn a house down. The passion for a country, a region, a language or for that matter even a food item, or how it is pronounced, is equally so. It cuts both ways. Positive and negative.

Take the humble dosa, it is pronounced by different people differently and literally every hundred kilometres has a version of its own. And everyone wants to own it. The taste and food item part of it apart, its very pronunciation sets its connoisseur in divide. While some call it a "dosa", others call it a "Dosa" with a hard accent on the D, and then there is of course the traditional "dosai". And tens of other versions.

The passion for this humble rice and lentil pancake is therefore deep. Any affront to it is not taken kindly, as we saw in the recent north Indian dosa versus the south Indian one fight. What's more, the humble dosa has a Schezwan variant as well, which the Chinese may own one day and patent. Who knows?

Passion is therefore a fire that burns in every heart. It is about ownership, pride and a certain sense of love for products or services. This passion starts from the very personal and moves in outward circles of progressive group adoption. It starts with a passion that is about yourself, and then spreads to your family of five and on to the community you live in, over to the city that is your immediate ecosystem, and spreads on and on. From city to country to a continent to the world and finally to the cosmos at large.

Passion that is personal and restricted to the innermost circle of self, family and local community seems to be the strongest binding glue in our lives. The passion for a food item that is local, a language that is local and a custom that is deeply local is strongest at the core and does certainly get dissipated in passion scores as it spreads to the larger circles of adoption.

Let me just pick one passion for now. The passion for a language. Languages have been known to divide people into sub-groups that have often fought with one another. An affront to language is not taken lightly even today. To many, language is part of the regional affiliation kit that is so basic. The state, its political boundaries, its flag (if there exists one), its anthem and its primary language is oftentimes protected with passion and fervour. And oftentimes fought for even.

The passion for language is really not about size, as much as it is about who you are and what you speak. If it were all about size, Mandarin Chinese would rule with literally 14% of the world speaking it. If you were to add Wu Chinese to it, that would be a notch higher by a percentage point.

Would it then be right to say that language is an imperialism? A force that will eventually dictate passion-bonds among peoples of the world? Will one language try to make inroads into the territory of another? Will the world be divided by language more than political boundaries that divide the world today? Will commonality of language bind more and create language islands that will rule? Will language wars be a reality of the future? Will the largest languages try to consume the smallest? Will the big iron-box effect of a common language iron out the small languages that are really little creases of differentiation? Many questions. Not enough answers yet.

Will the smallest languages of the world disappear altogether? Will different language groups be owned by a different ethos, each that will define their isms? Is Mandarin Chinese the flag-bearer of Communism, just as English and Hindi are possibly flag-bearers of the best examples of democratic tradition? Will language divides define religious ones as well? Will nations have their own languages? Can language have a religion? More questions.

> Take the humble dosa, while some call it a "dosa", others call it a "Dosa" with a hard accent on the D. ... Will the big iron-box effect of a common language iron out the small languages that are really little creases of differentiation?

What then of countries like India, which houses the second largest population in the world and yet has a variegated language culture within the country? Hindi, the official language of the Union of India (adopted by the Constitution in 1950), is spoken by 528 million speakers. The rest among the 1.38 billion people in India therefore speak a myriad set of languages, English included, with pride and passion. Each language represents a crease of differentiation that fights being erased by the great big iron-box culture that wants commonality in a mass that desires differentiation in everything, food, clothing and language included. The ultimate example of unity in diversity is the brightly quilted language culture of India.

The passion that each of these many languages of India pack is truly unassessed to date. Each language is a powerhouse of deep passion, kept latent most of the time by those who speak it.

Time to then let each language be. Let each language swim in its own territory, both geographic and psychographic. In India, we seem to have emerged with a three-language formula, mostly with Hindi, English and the local language leading the way. English has certainly become a language that bridges and replaces the discomfort shown in many places to Hindi. And therefore we record around 260 million English speakers. As a comparative marker to note, the population of the United Kingdom as of now stands at 67 million. English is the second most spoken language in India with Bengali coming in third position at 97 million.

Numbers apart, the important thing to remember is that the world speaks more than 7,100 languages today. India boasts of the oldest spoken language to date (Tamil) and the smallest as well (Sanskrit, with around 25,000 active speakers). We have large languages, and we have micro-languages in our midst. The best thing to do is let language be. Let the large languages be and when it comes to the smaller ones, let's protect them with good intent. And passion to boot.

Let's then create an ecosystem to let every language thrive, both in the physical and digital world. Let's remember that some languages need focus and care to get them back on track. In a progressively digital world, we don't write and read as much as we listen and see. Niche languages like Konkani (2.3 million speakers), as an example close to heart, need that digital nudge to keep them going. Let the big languages be. Let's focus on the micro-languages of India. Let's go.

KADWAYA AND THE 'DRUNKEN PEACOCKS' OF MP

SAURABH SAXENA

Founder of Puratattva, a documentation of heritage sites

India has been successful in preserving many of her ancient metropolises as modern, buzzing and developed towns and cities. Varanasi, Kanchipuram, Mathura, Patna, Madurai, Delhi, Bhubaneswar, Gwalior, etc., are a few such examples. However, there are also cases where ancient centres of considerable importance are reduced to small villages and settlements since they did not have the required political and cultural support to sustain their status. Kadwaya, a village in the Ashoknagar district of Madhya Pradesh, falls under this category. This small village boasts of 15 temples, a Shaiva monastery, a few tanks, a fortress, a mosque, etc., all evidence of its past fame and eminence.

The village, then known as Kadambaguha and Mattamayurapura, rose to prominence during the eighth century CE. There were two discernible factors for its growth. The first was its location—it is situated in a region bounded by river Sindhu in the west and river Betwa in the east. This geographical advantage fostered the growth of many centres in the region such as Chanderi, Ranod, Indor, Terahi and Thubon. These towns were suitable stopovers for traders travelling on the routes from the north to west and south. The second factor was the establishment of the principal seat of the Mattamayura line of saints in Kadwaya. Kadambaguhadivasin ("inhabitant of Kadambaguha"), though not a personal name, was the first saint of this clan. The clan spread far and wide to Gujarat, Rajasthan, Maharashtra, Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu.

A collateral line of the Mattamayura clan got associated with the Kalachuri kings of Tripuri during the 10–11th century CE. The Ranod inscription mentions that sage Purandara established mathas (monasteries) at Ranod and Kadwaya after initiating the Chalukya King Avantivarman; the latter was ruling from Kadwaya as his capital. This matha is the earliest surviving structure in Kadwaya, dateable to the ninth-tenth century CE. The matha became a focal point and during the reign of the Gurjara-Pratiharas, several temples and other structures were constructed around it. A 10th century CE inscription mentions the initiation of a Pratihara king, Hariraja, from a disciple of Dharmashiva at the Kadwaya matha.

Kadwaya received a setback when it came under the growing empire of Alaud-Din Khalji. An inscription, dated to 1309–10 CE, mentions that a sage named Bhuteshvara did a severe penance when the world was harassed by the mlecchas and the latter committed sins 19 times. The inscription suggests that though the village was taken over by the forces of Alaud-Din Khalji, the matha continued to carry out its functions. Like many other sites in the vicinity, the matha in Kadwaya was also converted into a garhi (fortress) and a mosque was built over a temple, suggesting that it became a military post during the Khalji and the later Tughluq period.

All the surviving temples are scattered around the village except one that is constructed near the matha. The temples are classified based upon their location into eight different groups and named after local designations. Chandla Temple, located in the northwest of the village, is the earliest and dateable to the ninth century CE. It is built in tri-ratha plan with a pyramidal phamsana shikhara and consists of a garbhagriha (sanctum sanctorum) and a mandapa. It is dedicated to Shiva, and has Ganesha, Chamunda and Surya on its bhadra niches. Shiva as Natesha is present over the lalata-bimba (crest-figure) of the garbhagriha doorway. Later temples of the tenth century CE are built on decorated plinths with advanced adhisthana, and have a vimana with a complex iconographic programme. Though not many temples have survived with their shikharas, they would have been of the latina or rekha-style shikhara of the Nagara order. The Toteshvara Mahadev temple (11th century CE) represents the zenith of the temple construction activities in Kadwaya. The temple is built in pancha-ratha plan, with its garbhagriha doorway composed of seven shakhas (bands) and a shikhara of the earlier form of sekhari style with urushringa (subsidiary tower) provided over the bhadra.

We do not exactly know who built these temples as there are no foundation inscriptions. However, it may be surmised that these were not sponsored by the royal houses but mostly built by matha pontiffs or village communities. Therefore, the style and theme of these temples would have been highly influenced by the Mattamayura saints. The presence of Shiva as Natesha over many temples in Kadwaya, including the earliest one at the site, indicates the importance given to the icon. Mattamayura, translated as "drunken peacocks", refers to the delight and ecstasy of these birds reflected in their dance. Through this notion, the Mattamayura saints attempted to become one with Shiva, as the latter is also worshipped as the ultimate dancer, Nataraja.

Kadwaya has received attention from scholars in the past few decades. However, there remain various aspects that are still to be unfolded. The village is not frequented by tourists as it lies away from the main circuits. Chanderi is the only town in the area that gets a good flow of tourists, with the rest of the monument-rich region bereft of visitors.

Rain havoc in Chennai

The continuous heavy rainfall in Chennai has caused havoc, leaving a trail of destruction in its wake and bringing the TN capital to a standstill. Despite the efforts of the government, there isn't enough money available in the state's disaster fund due to Covid. The Centre should provide the support it promised to ensure the people do not suffer much.

Must tackle issue tactfully

The Tamil Nadu CM made an unintentional faux pas in thanking his Kerala counterpart for granting permission to fell trees near the Mullaperiyar dam. He obviously did it with good intentions, not knowing his action would raise a storm. The Kerala government has made a U-turn and frozen the order, which was allegedly issued without authority. Whether this is true or a clever cover in the face of opposition outcry is not known. The issue has the potential to strain relations between the two governments unless the Kerala CM tackles the situation very tactfully.

Learning experience

It is said that well begun is half done. The Indian team failed to begin the T20 World Cup well. Though we hoped for a cup, New Zealand's wonderful performance against Afghanistan secured it the semifinals spot that we had been vying for. This should be a learning experience for the Men in Blue.

A team for each format?

With New Zealand's comprehensive victory, the hot favourites are set to return home empty-handed. The Ravi Shastri-Virat Kohli partnership has all but ended with not a single ICC trophy won. The BCCI would be far from upset as it successfully managed to complete the IPL, its main cash cow. The fatigued Indian team proved to be sitting ducks for the other nations. It is high time India looks into fielding three different captains and teams for the various formats of the sport.

Pilgrimage vs tourism

This is with reference to Ayodhya, an opportunity for Indic tourism model (Nov 8). The author made a distinct demarcation between ostentatious tourism and transcendental pilgrimage. Tourism provides ephemeral happiness that will fade away as time passes. Pilgrimage not only provides inexplicable bliss but also promotes enrichment of wisdom, augmentation of the spiritual quotient, etc. Sri Ram and Sri Krishna are worshipped as deities cutting across region, caste, creed and even religion sometimes. That is the essence of cultural nationalism that India can be proud of.

No faith in Lakhimpur SIT, BJP worker's widow tells SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

EXPRESSING dissatisfaction over the conduct of probe in Lakhimpur Kheri violence case, Ruby Devi, the widow of BJP worker Shyam Sunder who was killed in the incident, told the Supreme Court on Monday that she doesn't have confidence in the investigation by the UP police.

Senior Advocate Arun Bharadwaj, appearing for Ruby Devi who has intervened in the PIL seeking proper investigation of the case, claimed Shyam Sunder was last seen with policemen before his death.

Bharadwaj flashed a photograph before the bench, saying that Shyam Sunder could be seen in the picture along with policemen. "I have photograph of him before he was killed... He was with policemen donning bullet proof jackets and AK 47 rifles," Bharadwaj said. He said he had e-mailed the photograph to the Additional Advocate General of Uttar Pradesh 15 days back, but nothing was done.

Bharadwaj said the Special Investigation Team has not called for the mobile phones of the policemen seen in the photograph for examination.

At this, Chief Justice of India asked senior advocate Harish Salve appearing for UP government to respond to the allegations. Salve disputed the claim that Shyam Sunder was in police custody. He said the police was trying to rescue people from mob lynching.

Bharadwaj also made a demand for CBI probe.

"CBI can't be a solution for everything," the bench said. The bench said it is contemplating the appointment of a retired judge of a high court of another state to monitor the investigation on a daily basis to "infuse fairness and impartiality".

The hearing has been adjourned for Friday.

Physical hearing: No harm in return to normalcy

The Supreme Court on Monday observed that physical hearings have happened for 70 years and that there is no harm if the system is restored to normalcy. The court, however, agreed to hear in December 2021 a batch of pleas filed before it seeking continuance of virtual and hybrid hearings. The matter was mentioned by senior advocate Sidharth Luthra before the bench of Justice L Nageswara Rao and Justice Abhay Oka, who queried Luthra that effectively the writ petitions are infructuous with physical opening of courts. "By the time we wait for all the courts to open physically, everything would become irreversible. High courts have started closing down virtual access completely even though the hybrid option was available," Luthra told. "So much money has been invested, let it continue. MP High Court has invested huge amounts in purchasing their virtual application recently and within a week thereafter they closed it," Luthra argued.

Plea seeks infra for victims of domestic abuse

The Supreme Court on Monday sought response from the Centre on a plea seeking adequate infrastructure across the country for providing effective legal aid to women abused in matrimonial homes and for creating shelter homes for them. A bench of Justices U U Lalit and Justice S Ravindra Bhat issued notices to the Central ministries concerned and sought their responses by December 6. The court was hearing a PIL filed by 'We The Women of India', seeking adequate infrastructure for victims under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act across the country. The plea said domestic violence continues to be the most common crime against women in India despite the Domestic Violence Act, 2005 coming into force more than 15 years back. "As per the National Crime Records Bureau report for the year 2019, out of 4.05 lakh reported cases categorised under 'crimes against women', over 30 per cent were domestic violence cases," the plea said.

Cong launching outreach events across country

Fortnight-long campaign in all wards to highlight inflation, monetisation & farm laws

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

PADYATRAS, night stay at villages and prabhat pheris — Congress has asked party MPs, MLAs and top leadership to reach out to people at ward and panchayat levels as part of a fortnight-long national outreach program starting from November 14 against the BJP-led central government on issues of inflation, monetisation policy and farm protest.

The party has decided to launch 'Jan Jagran Abhiyan' between November 14-29 and a series of activities like padyatras, shut downs and dharnas among others have been planned across the country.

A meeting of the agitation committee headed by senior party leader Digvijay Singh was held Monday to plan the activities.

"It has been decided that all party leaders should reach out to people in wards and panchayats and talk to them to understand their problems. It has been suggested that they should plan night stays in villages and hold prabhat pheris (procession at dawn) on the lines held by Mahatama Gandhi against Britishers to alert people," said a senior party leader.

Sources said Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra is likely to hold similar meetings in UP as part of her election campaign in the state and other senior party leaders have been asked to visit different parts of the country.

Ahead of the launch of the campaign, the party is holding a workshop for a select group of functionaries at Wardha, Maharashtra from November 12-14. They will be trained by experts from sectors like economy, education, health and agriculture on how to reach out to masses and touch upon issues that have impacted them.

The party workers will be armed with data on how fuel price increased under BJP regime, impact of monetisation, farm laws and unemployment.

This is first of a series of sustained agitations. Different issues will be picked up to make people aware about the truth keeping in mind that this government is engaged in false propaganda — A Congress leader

Mayawati to interview ticket aspirants

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

WITH Assembly elections just a few months away, political parties in Uttar Pradesh have already started confabulations on the ticket distribution.

The Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP), which has in the past faced allegations of seeking huge amounts of money from ticket seekers, has this time decided to conduct four rounds of interview of the aspirants to ensure transparency in the ticket distribution process.

According to party insiders, BSP chief Mayawati will meet the ticket-seekers and put the final seal on the names of the candidates. Highly placed sources said the party has started calling potential candidates to Lucknow for the interview.

Mayawati's announcement at her October 9 Lucknow rally that she would pay surprise visits to districts to evaluate the party's poll preparedness had led the BSP cadre to step up preparations at the district level and the process of interviewing prospective candidates was commenced.

As per BSP sources, in the first round of interview, the aspirants are being asked to furnish their bio-data listing their strengths and weaknesses. The party would assess their credibility and background.

In round two, the aspirants' presence on social media will be evaluated. They will be asked about their association with the Bahujan movement. In the third round, they will be asked about the problems plaguing the constituency of their choice and the solutions they have in mind.

In the last round, Mayawati will ask the ticket seekers about their political journey and why should they be given ticket. They will be asked about the work done by them in the constituency. Their popularity will be evaluated by conducting surveys. If they furnish wrong information, strict action will be taken.

Despite all these steps, the BSP leadership has come under cloud as senior leader Mehraj Ali in Aligarh has accused party leaders of asking for ₹2.30 crore in lieu of poll ticket. BSP district chief Ratandeep Singh denied the allegations and said Ali has not been active in the party.

The complaint was filed by Maharashtra Congress chief spokesperson Atul Londhe. Yogi digs up Kairana exodus issue, SP cries foul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Lucknow

BRINGING up the issue of migration of people out of Kairana in Western UP in 2016 during the rule of Samajwadi Party, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Monday said peace was restored in the district owing to BJP government's policy of "zero-tolerance" towards crimes.

CM Yogi, who visited Kairana city in Shamli district for the first time after becoming the CM in 2017, met some trader families who returned after migrating out of the state in 2016 for "fear" of other community. He later laid foundation for a PAC battalion camp and other projects in the city.

Adityanath's visit to Kairana ahead of next year's Assembly polls assumes significance as the BJP faces a big challenge in western Uttar Pradesh where, the opposition claims, the farmer's protests have brought the Jats and Muslims — a sizeable vote bank in the area — on the same page.

The UP CM claimed that under his regime, those who had forced the people to migrate in 2016, had themselves migrated out of the state.

"Between 2014 and 2016, several Hindu families in Kairana had migrated due to threats of extortion from another community. However, in my regime, those who forced you to leave have now left the place because they know that they will have to pay dearly for their misdeeds," he said.

According to reports, between 2014 and 2016, several Hindu families in Kairana had migrated due to threats of extortion.

Even the National Human Rights Commission had taken cognisance of it and issued a notice to the then UP government led by Akhilesh Yadav. The exodus was a big issue in the 2017 Assembly elections.

Meanwhile, the SP reacted sharply to the CM's Kairana visit saying that he was again resorting to the exodus issue as the BJP government had done nothing for the development of Kairana during its tenure.

Fratricides on rise, CRPF plans informal discussion forums for jawans

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

FOLLOWING the shocking incident of fratricide by a CRPF jawan in Chhattisgarh that claimed the lives of four of his colleagues, this newspaper accessed records of fratricides and suicides among CRPF personnel and found that the highest number of such incidents have been committed this year compared to previous years.

As far as suicides are concerned, the number by the end of this year may surpass the previous highest total.

A total of 16 deaths in fratricide have been reported from CRPF in the last four years with six jawans dying in five shootouts this year alone.

As of November 8, as many as 48 suicides have been reported in the CRPF. The number of suicides among CRPF personnel stood at 29 in 2016, according to data from the home ministry, which handles the affairs of the Central Armed Police Forces (CAPFs). In 2017, 2018 and 2019 and 2020 the number of suicides among the central force was 38, 38, 43 and 60, respectively.

Officials told this newspaper that the CRPF has decided to give a fresh push to informal, open-style discussions called 'Chaupals' for jawans.

In an official communication, DG CRPF Kuldiep Singh has asked senior officials to hold four such discussions in a week. All officials of the rank of IGs have been instructed to ensure that Chaupals are held in an informal setting so that jawans are encouraged to speak up without fear or pressure, said officials in the know.

NIA asks Canadian govt to declare Sikhs For Justice a terror outfit

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE National Investigation Agency has requested the Canadian government to declare Sikhs For Justice (SFJ) as a terrorist entity stating that many influential people associated with the outfit are working from Canada, sources said on Monday. The SFJ was banned by India under UAPA for its involvement in "promoting secession and violent extremism" in Punjab.

A senior NIA official said that a two-member NIA team led by an IG-rank official travelled to Canada in the first week of November and made an official request in this regard.

The official added that the NIA team also appealed to the Canadian government to expedite execution of requests made under the mutual legal assistance treaty (MLAT).

"The visit is for better coordination of investigation against entities and individuals suspected of terrorism and to discuss other criminal matters," a release issued by the Indian High Commission in Ottawa had said.

The statement further said, "The two countries have a range of ongoing bilateral mechanisms, including a joint working group on counter-terrorism. The two countries had signed a treaty on Mutual Assistance in Criminal Matters in 1994 and have had an Extradition Treaty since 1987."

NIA officials also discussed issues related to evidentiary requirements in India with Canadian authorities and possible cooperation for capacity building in police investigations.

The NIA delegation also held meetings with the International Crime and Counter-terrorism Bureau of Global Affairs Canada and with senior officials from the International Affairs Division of Public Safety Canada, to deepen ties.

BJP raised fake graft charges against UPA over chopper deal: Congress

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH reports of the Centre lifting ban on procurement from Italian aerospace company Finmeccanica, which was earlier termed 'corrupt' by BJP leaders over the Agusta choppers deal, the Congress Monday attacked the Modi-led NDA government saying a "fake bogey of corruption" was raised by the ruling party over the purchase of helicopters during the UPA rule.

Attacking the central government, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said: "Earlier, Augusta was corrupt and now it has come clean after getting washed in BJP laundry."

India had scrapped the contract with Finmeccanica's British subsidiary AgustaWestland in 2014 for supplying VVIP choppers to the Indian Air Force over charges of kickbacks paid by the firm for securing the deal.

"Is it now OK to deal with a company that Modi*ji* and his government called 'corrupt-bribe giver-bogus'? Does it mean that a fake bogey of corruption is being given a quiet burial? The nation awaits answers. The prime minister had called the company 'corrupt'. HM called the company 'bogus'. Ex-defence minister accused it of 'bribes and corruption' in Parliament. Then, Modi government withdrew blacklisting of Agusta/Finmeccanica in 2014. Now, the procurement ban has been lifted," said Congress media department chief RS Surjewala.

Assam govt evicts illegal settlers from forest land

1,400 hectares of land under encroachment; Muslim outfit protests

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE Assam government on Monday began a massive drive to evict encroachers at Lumding reserve forest in Hojai district following which a Muslim students' outfit accused the administration of taking 'selective' actions.

While the forest land is spread over 22,403 hectares, around 1,410 hectares are under encroachment. Some 1,500 families had built a school, a church and a mosque over the years. These illegal settlers are into cultivation of ginger and turmeric.

Authorities used elephants, excavators and tractors to carry out the drive, which faced no resistance from the encroachers. Chastened by the Darrang eviction row in which two people were killed in police firing, authorities deployed around 1,000 security personnel, including four companies of the CRPF, to oversee the drive.

The drive at Lumding, being carried out at the direction of the Gauhati High Court, would continue till Tuesday. On September 30, the court had directed the government to clear the encroachment in a phased manner.

Many illegal settlers had moved away after being convinced by the district administration, said Hojai Superintendent of Police Barun Purkayastha. "Many have vacated their houses while others are ready to leave. We are trying to convince some who are refusing to leave."

Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said the encroachment was business-centric, indicating the land was sold to the settlers by the mafia. He said a man, identified as Nazrul, had brought people from Barpeta and Dhubri to destroy the forest.

> All Assam Minorities Students' Union

In Delhi, the All Assam Minorities Students' Union (AAMSU) staged a sit-in demo at Jantar Mantar to protest the eviction drive. In a memorandum to the Prime Minister, the AAMSU alleged the Assam government, as a part of a political agenda, engaged itself in an 'arbitrary, selective and illegal eviction' of genuine Indians without verifying historical reality.

"A large section of the religious minority community settled on the banks of the Brahmaputra and its tributaries, ushering an era of agricultural revolution. However, they also face the wrath of the rivers as hundreds of hectares of land get submerged due to devastating floods and erosion leading to frequent migration," it said.

Security upped at Antilia after tip-off

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE security cover of Antilia on Monday was bolstered further after a taxi driver alerted the police about two people inquiring about the residence of India's richest tycoon Mukesh Ambani.

Ambani and his family have been living at Antilia in south Mumbai's posh Cumballa Hill area since 2012.

"We received a call from the taxi driver that two people driving a car and carrying a bag asked for Mukesh Ambani's residence Antilia. We are recording his statement," the Mumbai Police said. "A DCP-level rank officer is monitoring the situation. Security was heightened outside Antilia and CCTV footage is also being checked."

The men stopped their four-wheeler, a hatchback, near Killa court in CST and sought directions of the landmark, the driver told the police. The driver was clueless about the direction in which the car went ahead after its occupants spoke to him, according to the police.

As a pre-emptive measure, more barricades were being put by the police outside the 27-storey building located on Altamount Road. The police were yet to register a case till the report was filed in late evening.

In February, Antilia was in the news after police found an explosives-laden sport utility vehicle was found parked outside the high-rise. Gelatin sticks and a threatening note were seized from the vehicle.

The security scare also comes days after Reliance Industries Ltd clarified Ambani has no plans to relocate or reside in London or anywhere else in the world.

The Indian multinational conglomerate had also sought to end speculation over India's richest family dividing time between the UK and Mumbai, after a report that the Ambanis were looking to make the 300-acre country club in Buckinghamshire, Stoke Park their primary residence.

NCB vigilance team begins probe into pay-off charges in drugs case

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Narcotics Control Bureau's (NCB) Delhi vigilance team on Monday arrived in Mumbai to carry out the probe in various allegations in connection with the Cordelia cruise drugs case pertaining to blackmailing, extortion and forgery against Sameer Wankhede.

The vigilance team visited a spot outside the Indiana Hotel in the Lower Parel area where Shah Rukh Khan's manager Pooja Dadlani, NCB's witnesses K P Gosavi and Sam D'Souza had met as per Gosavi's bodyguard Prabhakar Sail's statement.

The team members also visited the Mumbai cruise terminal where the Cordelia, on which the party was organised on October 2, is docked. Led by NCB's Deputy Director General (northern region) Gyaneshwar Singh, the team will also record the statement of Prabhakar Sail, an independent witness.

The NCB on Sunday issued summons to Sail, who had last month claimed in an affidavit that he had heard Gosavi discussing a ₹25 crore pay-off deal after Aryan Khan was arrested by the NCB.

Sail's and Nawab Malik's allegations had prompted the NCB to order a vigilance inquiry against NCB officials and others.

Meanwhile, the Maharashtra government-appointed Special Investigation Team (SIT) is also recording various witnesses and eyewitnesses statements in connection with the case. It has also summoned Chunky Pandey's brother Chikki Pandey by the Mumbai police who reportedly connected Pooja Dadlani to Sam D'Souza.

Court seeks Malik's reply to defamation suit within a day

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE Bombay High Court on Monday directed NCP minister Nawab Malik to file his reply to Narcotic Control Bureau's Sameer Wankhede's father's ₹1.25-crore defamation suit within a day.

Sameer Wankhede's father Dhyandev Wankhede filed the defamation suit against the minister saying the content of his press conferences and social media posts are, 'torturous and defamatory in nature.'

Bombay High Court single bench justice Madhav Jamdar posted the matter on hearing on November 10 and asked to file the reply by Tuesday. Malik has not been barred from taking the press conferences and posting social posts on social.

Dhyandev Wankhede had sought permanent injections restraining Nawab Malik, his party members and all others working under his instructions from publishing any material that is defamatory about him and his family members.

Meanwhile, earlier the day, Nawab Malik shared the detail of Sameer Wankhede's sister-in-law Harshada Redkar being arrested in a drug case from Pune in 2008. The drug case is still pending in Pune court.

In her reaction Sameer Wankhede's wife Kranti Redkar said her sister is a victimised in the case and the matter is sub judice. "We got married in 2017 so how is he connected to the case?" she asked.

Salesman shot dead in second targeted killing

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

IN the second targeted killing in as many days, terrorists shot dead a salesman in Bohri Kadal area of downtown Srinagar on Monday evening.

The civilian, Mohammad Ibrahim Khan of Astengoo in north Kashmir's Bandipora, sustained critical injuries in the attack that came at 8.10 pm and was rushed to the SMHS Hospital, but was declared dead on arrival.

Ibrahim was working as a salesman in Kashmiri Pandit's shop.

After the attack, police and paramilitary personnel rushed to the area and launched a search operation to track terrorist.

On Sunday evening, militant had gunned down a policeman in Batamaloo area of uptown Srinagar.

The targetted killings by militants have taken place despite beefing up of security, deployment of more troops and construction of bunkers in Srinagar. The security arrangements were tightened after last month's targeted killings of migrant workers and minority community members by militants in Srinagar.

Meanwhile, security forces arrested two terrorists from Anantnag and Pulwama, both affiliated with The Resistance Front, which is believed to be a shadow outfit of the Lashkar-e-taiba. In Baramulla, three overground workers of the militants were arrested.

PM CARES ventilators found faulty

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

VENTILATORS supplied under the PM CARES Fund to the SMHS hospital in Srinagar were found defective, faulty and not fit to support patient care, according to an RTI response.

The Department of Anesthesiology and Critical Care Medicine had received 37 ventilators which were put in trial, the hospital said, responding to the query filed by RTI activist Balvinder Singh.

"All these ventilators were returned to Medical Superintendent SMHS hospital due to compressor/heat up problems, which resulted in sudden shutdown of these ventilators. These ventilators do not support the patient care management," the department head said.

Three Agva ventilators were non-functional because of problems such as display not working properly and problems in generating tidal volume, the response said.

Similarly, two DHAMAN-III ventilators were put on trial at the Srinagar hospital. "After a trial run, it was found that the tidal volume was not generated. Besides, the required flow rate could not be delivered to the patients and, hence, these are not feasible for patient care. These ventilators stop automatically, putting patients at risk."

Tidal volume is the amount of air that moves in or out of the human lungs with each respiratory cycle. Both Agva and DHAMAN-III are indigenous products.

Singh said he had filed a similar RTI at GMC Jammu to know the fate of ventilators supplied under the PM CARES fund but officials didn't provide exact details. "GMC Jammu has shown that only 13 ventilators out of 179 are defective and not working."

The Jammu-based RTI activist urged the J&K Chief Justice to order the chief secretary for constituting a panel of experts to inspect all such ventilators supplied under the PM CARES fund in the Union Territory.

Choose between Cong chief or compromised officer: Sidhu

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

PUNJAB Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu on Monday launched yet another attack at his own government over the sacrilege and drug issue saying the ruling dispensation in the state will have to "choose between a compromised officer or the state Congress chief".

"The government lacked political will as a special leave petition had not been filed against the blanket bail granted to former DGP Sumedh Singh Saini, one of the main persons named in the Behbal Kalan police firing case," he said.

He referred to Deputy CM and Home Minister Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa's statements against Amarinder Singh that his government did not arrested the then DGP.

"There was a change in guard because some people had raised questions on why the government was not arresting Sumedh. Now, the same people are silent," Sidhu said.

The Congress state chief again targeted the Advocate General APS Deol saying that the top law officer had ensured blanket bail to Sumedh and the state government had not filed an SLP against the bail yet.

PEGASUS SPYWARE USED ON SIX PALESTINIAN ACTIVISTS

Unclear who planted the snooping software on their phones, but those targeted are linked to groups banned by Israel govt last month

JERUSALEM

SECURITY researchers disclosed on Monday that spyware from the notorious Israeli hacker-for-hire company NSO Group was detected on the cellphones of six Palestinian human rights activists, half affiliated with groups that Israel's defence minister controversially claimed were involved in terrorism.

The revelation marks the first known instance of Palestinian activists being targeted by the military-grade Pegasus spyware. Its use against journalists, rights activists and political dissidents from Mexico to Saudi Arabia has been documented since 2015.

A successful Pegasus infection surreptitiously gives intruders access to everything a person stores and does on their phone, including real-time communications.

(From left) Ubai al-Aboudi, director of Bisan Centre for Research; Tahseen Alyan, researcher at an NGO; Sahar Francis, director of an NGO were among those targeted

It's not clear who placed the NSO spyware on the activists' phones, said the researcher who first detected it, Mohammed al-Maskati of the nonprofit Frontline Defenders.

Shortly after the first two intrusions were identified in mid-October, Israeli Defence Minister Benny Gantz declared six Palestinian civil society groups to be terrorist organisations. Ireland-based Frontline Defenders and at least two of the victims say they consider Israel the main suspect and believe the designation may have been timed to try to overshadow the hacks' discovery, though they have provided no evidence to substantiate those assertions.

Israel has provided little evidence publicly to support the terrorism designation, which the Palestinian groups say aims to dry up their funding and muzzle opposition to Israeli military rule. Three of the hacked Palestinians work for the civil society groups. The others do not, and wish to remain anonymous, Frontline Defenders says.

The forensic findings, independently confirmed by security researchers from Amnesty International and the University of Toronto's Citizen Lab in a joint technical report, come as NSO Group faces growing condemnation over the abuse of its spyware and Israel takes heat for lax oversight of its digital surveillance industry.

Last week, the Biden administration blacklisted the NSO Group and a lesser-known Israeli competitor, Candiru, barring them from US technology.

Asked about the allegations its software was used against the Palestinian activists, NSO Group said in a statement that it does not identify its customers for contractual and national security reasons, is not privy to whom they hack and sells only to government agencies for use against 'serious crime and terror'. An Israeli defence official said in a brief statement that the designation of the six organisations was based on solid evidence and that any claim it is related to the use of NSO software is unfounded. The statement had no other details, and officials declined requests for further comment. Israel's Defence Ministry approves the export of spyware produced by NSO Group and other private Israeli companies that recruit from the country's top cyber-capable military units. Critics say the process is opaque.

Emotional reunions as US reopens border after 20 months

NEWARK

PARENTS who hadn't seen their children in over two years, grandparents eager to hold their grandkids in their arms, fiances waiting to reunite with their loved ones — it was an emotional scene at the Newark International Airport here on Monday as families and friends were reunited after disruptions caused by the Covid-19 pandemic as the US opened its borders for international travellers.

The coronavirus pandemic had prompted the US to close its borders to international travellers from many countries, including India, last year. Later, only passengers holding visas belonging to certain categories were permitted to travel.

The US opened its borders for fully vaccinated tourists from November 8, gradually moving ahead to a sense of normalcy and bringing families the joy of reuniting with their loved ones.

"I booked the first flight on the first day," Vipul Shah said as he arrived with his wife. His two daughters waiting anxiously for their parents ran up to them as they saw them emerging from the airport doors. "I had booked the flight on November 1 itself when I heard that the US is opening up travel for tourists again. But I re-booked them for November 8. I could not wait for November 7 midnight when my wife and I will be able to sit on the flight,' he said as tears rolled down his cheeks on seeing his daughters, one of whom is getting married in Indianapolis.

"We have waited too long for this day,' the family said as they hugged and took pictures, cataloguing their reunion. It was a similar scene for many families as they were reunited following more than two years of having been separated from one another due to the pandemic. As the Air India flight from Delhi landed, Rupal Patel waited eagerly as she watched passengers gradually come out of the airport doors after completing the immigration formalities. "I'm waiting for my father. He is 86 and I have not seen him in over two years," she said. PTI

Former US President Barack Obama speaks during a session at the COP26 UN Climate Change Conference in Glasgow on Monday | AFP

Step up pledges to cut emissions, not done enough: Obama

GLASGOW

FORMER US President Barack Obama on Monday said "most countries have failed" to live up to promises they made in the Paris climate deal as he addressed attendees at the COP26 summit.

Obama, who was US leader in 2015 when the landmark accord was struck, said the world needed to "step up" its emissions-cutting pledges and work together to limit global temperature rises.

"We have not done nearly enough to address this crisis," he told delegates in Glasgow. "We are going to have to do more and whether that happens or not to a large degree is going to depend on you."

In the six years since the Paris deal — which seeks to limit global heating to between 1.5 and 2 degrees Celsius — planet-warming greenhouse gas emissions have continued to mount, and an assessment last week said that carbon pollution will rebound this year to pre-pandemic levels.

"By some measures the agreement has been a success," Obama said. "(But) we are nowhere near where we need to be yet."

But he admitted that "some of our progress stalled" when his successor Donald Trump chose to unilaterally withdraw the US from the Paris deal. President Joe Biden re-joined the accord when he took office. He said that China and Russia — whose leaders skipped a high-level segment in Glasgow last week attended by more than 120 heads of state and government — have shown a "dangerous lack of urgency" on climate commitments.

"Most countries have failed to be as ambitious as they need to be," he said. "We need advanced economies like the US and Europe leading on this issue but you know the facts. We also need China leading on this issue and India leading on this issue," said the American former president.

He said the world was undergoing a "moment when international cooperation has waned"."But there is one thing that should transcend our day to day politics and normal geopolitics. And that is climate change." The US is history's largest polluter but plans to achieve carbon neutrality by 2050. AFP

Future Retail moves SC against SIAC's order

Future Group earlier contended before SIAC that it should be excluded from the ongoing arbitration proceedings

FRL DEFERS SHAREHOLDERS' MEET

The National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) on Monday put on hold its earlier approval to FRL for conducting a meeting with shareholders and creditors to seek approval on its deal with Reliance Retail. The shareholders' meeting was supposed to happen on 10th and 11th November.

ECONOMIC NEWS BUREAU

FUTURE Retail (FRL) on Monday filed a Special Leave Petition (SLP) in the Supreme Court, demanding that the court put on hold Singapore arbitral court's October 21 order making it a party to the arbitration process.

Spokespersons from both Amazon and Future Group have confirmed the development.

This came a day after a scathing letter by one of the independent directors of Future Retail to the chairperson of Competition Commission of India, in which he has requested the commission to revoke the approval given to Amazon and Future Couponss Private Ltd, a future group company.

Future Group had earlier contended before the Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) that it should be excluded from the arbitration proceedings because it is not a party to the dispute between its promoter Futures Couponss and Amazon.

However, SIAC had rejected its request, making it a party in the ongoing arbitration, and asking it not to go ahead with the process of seeking shareholders' approval for the Reliance Retail buyout offer to FRL. FRL had earlier moved Delhi High Court requesting to set aside the SIAC's 21 October order. However, Delhi High Court had rejected FRL's request.

Meanwhile, the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) on Monday put on hold its earlier approval to FRL for conducting a meeting with shareholders and creditors to seek approval on its deal with Reliance Retail.

The shareholders' meeting was supposed to happen on 10th and 11th November. However, Future Retail wanted the meeting to be postponed to 25th and 26th of November as it needed more time for preparations.

During the hearing on Monday, Amazon cited some new court orders, after which the NCLT decided to hear them out and hence put on hold the shareholders meeting for now.

On 7th November, independent director Ravinder Dhariwal wrote to CCI chairman Ashok Kumar Gupta requesting him to revoke the approval the commission had given to Amazon's acquisition of 49% stake in Futures Coupons Private Ltd, the promoter company of Future Retail.

Dhariwal alleged that Amazon misrepresented facts while seeking approval for the deal.

India ahead of China in financial inclusion metrics

ECONOMIC NEWS BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA is now ahead of China in financial inclusion metrics, as the number of persons with deposit accounts at banks has significantly increased, comparable with emerging economy peers and even some of the advanced economies, says a latest report by the SBI Ecowrap.

According to the report, written by Soumya Kanti Ghosh, group chief economic adviser at State Bank of India (SBI), online banking transactions rose to 13,615 per 1,000 adults in 2020 from 183 in 2015 and the number of bank branches inched up to 14.7 per 1 lakh adults in 2020 from 13.6 in 2015, which is higher than Germany, China and South Africa.

The SBI report also added that during the past seven years of the financial inclusion drive, the number of no-frills bank accounts opened has reached 43.7 crore with ₹1.46 lakh crore in deposits as of October 20, 2021.

Of these, nearly two-thirds are operational in rural and semi-urban areas and over 78% of these accounts are with state-owned banks, 18.2% with regional rural banks, and a paltry 3% are opened by private sector banks.

During this period, the number of bank branches in rural areas has increased from 33,378 in March 2010 to 55,073 in December 2020. The number of banking outlets in villages and banking correspondents (BCs) has soared from 34,174 in March 2010 to 12.4 lakh in December 2020.

During this period, the number of commercial bank branches per one lakh adults rose from 13.5 to 14.7. The number of deposit accounts with banks rose from 1,536 to 2,031, the number of loan accounts from 154 to 267, and the number of mobile and internet banking transactions rose from 183 to 13,615. The RBI in January 2016 allowed the business correspondent model of branchless banking.

"It is sometimes observed that there is no uniformity among the BCs across banks regarding adherence to the above guidelines. PSBs mostly follow 'branch-led BC model', while other banks follow 'branch less/corporate BC model," the report said adding there should be rationalisation in interchange fee as there is no level playing field in infrastructure by all banks.

Meanwhile, the finance ministry has said that the number of PM Jan Dhan accounts have trebled to 43.76 crore over the last 6 years. In March 2015, there were 14.72 crore such accounts. The ministry also informed that 31.67 crore reupay debit cards with inbuilt accident insurance coverage issued to Jan dhan account holders till October 21.

Paytm IPO subscribed 18% on first day of bidding

ECONOMIC NEWS BUREAU
@ New Delhi

EVEN as the Initial Public offering (IPO) of One-97 Communications Ltd-owned Paytm got a rather muted response as the IPO got only 18% subscribed on the first day of bidding, retail investors showed their eagerness to own the shares of the fintech company. The retail portion of the IPO got 78% subscribed on the first day itself.

According to sources in Paytm, the IPO received more than ₹1,000 crore worth of subscription request from the retail investors on the first day.

The company has reserved 18% of the total 4.83 crore shares on sale for retail investors. Of the total 87.98 lakh shares reserved for retail investors, bids for 68.79 lakh shares were received on the first day.

The institutional investor and high net-worth individual portions were subscribed just 6% and 2%, respectively.

On the first day, bids for 85.81 lakh equity shares were received against an offer size of 4.83 crore shares.

When asked about the muted response to the IPO on the first day, a senior official from Paytm said, "There is no benefit for some to come in day 1 versus day 3. Retail has been very good. HNIs (High-Networth Individuals) and QIBs (Qualified Institutional Buyers) will start picking up from Tuesday, but the vast majority will be on the final day."

The subscription for Paytm IPO was opened on 8 November, which curiously is also the fifth anniversary of demonetisation. Paytm is considered one of the biggest beneficiaries of demonetisation. If Paytm is successful in its bid, the ₹18,300 crore IPO will be the biggest in terms of size. Paytm has priced the IPO between ₹2,080 and ₹2,150 per share.

In the DRHP (Draft Red Herring Prospectus), One97 had said that it will use the funds raised to strengthen the Paytm ecosystem by acquiring as well as retaining consumers and merchants.

Zomato offers ice cream and dahi shakkar to Paytm

Food delivery company Zomato and online grocery store BigBasket on Monday congratulated payment platform Paytm that opened for subscription. BigBasket tweeted 'Dear@paytm, we wish you a basket full of luck and blessings!' For which, Paytm quickly responded, 'big thank you!'. In its tweet, Zomato wished Paytm the best of luck for the IPO. It tweeted, 'If you need some dahi shakkar for good luck, ice cream for the stress, or some sweets for celebrations (wink wink) we are right here!' Paytm replied 'thank you, dil khush kar diya.' It may be noted that Zomato's own listing happened in September. Paytm is backed by Jack Ma's Ant Group, SoftBank and Berkshire Hathaway.

'WITHDRAWAL OF CONVINIENCE FEE DECISION POSITIVE'

ECONOMIC NEWS BUREAU
@ New Delhi

RAJNI Hasija, chairman and managing director of IRCTC, in an analyst meet on Monday said it is in the good interest of the state-backed company that the decision of sharing convenience fee revenue has been withdrawn.

Hasija hinted that if it had not been withdrawn, they would have examined increasing the fees it charges on ticket bookings.

"As we have been mentioning in various con calls that IRCTC has been given the liberty to decide its convenience fee, the amount that can be charged. That amount in various conferences, investor meets also, investors have been suggesting why not charge per passenger. At that time, management was answering let's not be that greedy. Secondly, we have also been given some dispensation to UPI where almost 30% of the transactions are getting; we are getting less of the convenience fee. So, had the decision not been withdrawn, certainly we would have worked on those lines."

As long as they are able to meet their expenses and add to a good amount of revenue and profits, there is no need for the management to increase the convenience fee

Rajni Hasija, chairman, IRCTC

When asked what factors they would consider before increasing the convenience fees, Hasija said that as long as they are able to meet their expenses and add to a good amount of revenue and profits, there is no need for the management to increase the convenience fee. She mentioned that IRCTC's convenience fee in the first half of FY22 came at ₹289 crore, out of which ₹104 crore came during the first quarter and ₹185 crore in September quarter.

Railway Ministry on October 28 had said that Indian Railways Catering and Tourism Corporation (IRCTC) would share all the convenience fee revenue it earns in the ratio of 50:50 from November 1st.

However, a massive slump in IRCTC share price, up to 29% intraday, on October 29 forced the Ministry to scrap this decision in less than 24 hours.

Margins should be stable despite pressure on retail lending yield, driven by continued aggression from banks in the Mortgage space. Most of HDFC's subsidiaries are among the Top 3 players in their respective segments. We expect HDFC to deliver a ~14% AUM CAGR and ~13% PAT CAGR over FY21–24E. This would translate into RoA/RoE of 2%/13% in FY23E.

Power deficit nearly wiped out, says Govt

ECONOMIC NEWS BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA's power deficit this year 'spiked marginally' to 1.2% due to the annual post-monsoon pressure on output, the ministry of power said in a statement on Monday, adding that this deficit has nearly been wiped out over the last three years.

"India had a massive power deficit of -16.6% in 2007-08. Even in 2011-12, it was -10.6%. Through the multi-pronged, comprehensive and aggressive interventions of the government, this deficit is near about wiped out, consistently over the last three years: -.4% in 2020-21, -.7% in 2019-20 and -.8% in 2018-19," the Ministry said in a statement on Monday.

The ministry clarification came after it was reported that power supply shortage in October 2021 was the highest in 5.5 years. The shortage was attributed to limited coal stocks available with thermal plants.

"The current year, up till October, it (the power deficit) has been -1.2%; the marginal spike being attributable to the annual post-monsoon pressure on power output. This is also likely to normalise by the end of the year," the statement read. It added the transformation from an acutely power deficit country, to a situation of demand being met, except for an extremely marginal shortfall of less than 1% has been made possible by schemes introduced by the current government to address the unhappy situation. The ministry concluded that the augmentation to the installed power capacity in the country, consequent to these efforts, has been 1,55,377 megawatt in the last approximately seven years.

T+1 equity settlement cycle to begin from Feb 25

ECONOMIC NEWS BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA's stock exchanges have decided to roll out the much awaited T+1 (Trading plus one day) equity settlement cycle from February 25, 2022 in a phased manner.

Stock exchanges and market infrastructure institutions on Monday said that the bottom 100 stocks based on daily market capitalisation averaged in October will be brought under the new settlement system first, followed by 400 stocks in March 2022. The last batch of stocks will be brought under the new system by January 27, 2023.

This comes after market regulator Sebi in September had allowed the exchanges to introduce T+1 settlement cycle from January 1, 2022 on any of the securities available in the equity segment. The decision was taken back after requests from market participants, mainly from foreign investors who had said that they would face issues while operating from different geographies.

Once the T+1 cycle comes into effect, the market trade-related settlements will be cleared in one day. At present, trades on the domestic stock exchanges are settled in two working days after the transaction is done (T+2).

According to a statement issued by the National Stock Exchange (NSE), all listed stocks, across stock exchanges (BSE, NSE and MSEI), will be ranked in descending order based on daily market capitalization averaged for the month of October 2021.

Where a stock is listed on multiple exchanges, the market capitalisation will be calculated based on the price of stock at the stock exchange with highest trading volume during the period under review.

The list of stocks and exchanges where they are available for trade will be published on the website of all exchanges. Based on the ranking, the bottom 100 stocks will be available for introduction of T+1 settlement, from February 25, 2022.

Such investments will be subjected to limits and the terms and conditions for investments by Foreign Portfolio Investors in debt securities under the respective regulations of MTF and VRR.

THE farewell was not supposed to be like this. This isn't what Ravi Shastri, leave alone the head coach, the persona would have wanted. He has always loved going the distance, often being the last man standing at parties, always on the lookout for more. It was how he was as a head coach too, especially during his second stint with Team India. After seeing through the transition period during his first tenure between 2014-2016 (when he was team director), he wanted to see the team become world beaters.

The T20 World Cup was seen as the ideal send-off for one of India's most decorated coach-captain combination. Throughout their tenure, despite the numerous highs in bilateral series, an ICC trophy has eluded them and for a duo who have constantly spoken about challenging and beating the best, this tournament doesn't do justice to it. It is perhaps the lowest of their tenure. And one that no one saw coming. The 2018 England series defeat still hurts Shastri, and this will no doubt ache as much.

After Greg Chappell, no other Indian coach polarized opinions as much as Shastri, who took over as coach in 2017. In a world dominated by social media trends, he was just one defeat away from becoming a meme material. Post Gary Kirsten, India hasn't had a good, if not better, man-manager than Shastri. He knew when to take a step back and when to pick the right moments to send a strong message or two.

India and Namibia players exchange pleasantries after their last Group 2 match | AFP

For a coach who was handpicked by the captain himself and has often been criticised for it, other players will vouch how much his presence, especially during tough days, took the pressure off them.

"When I took this job, I said in my mind, 'I want to make a difference' and I think I have. It's unfortunate we are out of this tournament but that takes nothing away from this great side," Shastri told Star Sports before the final group game against Namibia.

For all the talk of how Shastri got what he wanted during the time of the Committee of Administrators, he and his support staff Bharat Arun and R Sridhar have led the team to success in Australia, West Indies, Sri Lanka and England (albeit with a Test to go). For a team that struggled to have a reliable third pacer on tours, they now have abundance of riches and in Australia and England, even outbowled opponents.

As his reign comes to an end, it is a tale of two halves. On one side, Shastri leaves behind a Test side that is easily the best India have had. However, in ODIs and T20Is, the team never played to their potential in ICC events. While a first limited-overs series win in South Africa and T20I series in Australia and New Zealand were definitely huge, an undercooked middle order put paid to their hopes of winning the 50-over World Cup, the pinnacle of the white-ball.

Brief scores: Namibia 132/8 in 20 ovs (Wiese 26, Ashwin 3/20, Jadeja 3/16) lost to India 136/1 in 15.2 ovs (Rohit 56, Rahul 54 n.o).

BCCI set to restart A tours, SA likely in Dec

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) is all set to restart the India A tour programme with talks underway with Cricket South Africa (CSA) for a series alongside the Freedom Trophy starting in December. At the moment, the BCCI is in the process of finalising the support staff for the National Cricket Academy (NCA) with VVS Laxman the frontrunner to replace Rahul Dravid as the head of cricket. The road ahead for A teams could see them play all three formats on tours and there are also plans for exclusive white-ball series both home and away.

Ever since the tour of New Zealand in January-February 2020, the much-celebrated A programme, responsible for giving national side finished products, stopped because of Covid. The board was supposed to restart with a tour of England last June, but postponed it because of the second Covid wave.

However, with vaccine around, some boards have restarted the A tour with Pakistan currently playing in Sri Lanka. Similarly, the England Lions team will tour Australia simultaneously alongside the senior team during the Ashes later this year. It is understood that the proposed A tour of South Africa is also likely to be in a bio-bubble environment. Sources have told this newspaper that a positive outcome is expected any moment.

Need to improve tactical side of game: Boxing coach

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

FIVE boxers muscled their way into the last-eight of the recently concluded World Championships with one, a young face in the form of Akash Kumar, bagging bronze. On paper, the overall performances was far from spectacular but for Narendra Rana, the national chief coach, it was notable enough to leave a positive impression. "It was a good experience. I think the boys did quite well, winning many bouts during the meet," said the 49-year-old, who was overseeing the national team in an elite competition for the first time.

After flattering to deceive during the Tokyo Olympics, the Boxing Federation of India (BFI) made wholesale changes including the appointment of Rana and other coaches in the support staff. "We can do better. We need to focus on our practice, look to improve our foot movement and counter-punches...," he said. In the coming days, Rana is intent on improving the tactical side of the game of his wards.

Baroda 134/7 in 20 ovs (Bhanu Punia 36) lost to Karnataka 137/3 in 20 ovs (Devdutt Padikkal 56). GROUP D: Assam: 121/8 (Basil Thampi 3/12) lost to Kerala 122/2 in 18 overs (Rohan K 56 n.o.). GROUP E: Delhi 170/5 in 20 ovs (Anuj Rawat 41; Chama Milind 2/49) 0 lost to Hyderabad 171/7 in 20 ovs (Tanmay Agarwal 54; Pradeep Sangwan 3/27).

AFTER the completion of the fourth round of Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy, Karnataka and Hyderabad kept their unbeaten run intact as they defeated Baroda and Delhi respectively on Monday. However, defending champions Tamil Nadu suffered their first loss of the competition to Goa. Andhra, Pondicherry and Odisha also lost their respective matches while Kerala posted a win over Assam.

Since the first game, Karnataka have been consistent with their all-round display, and they came up with a similar show against Baroda in their Elite Group B contest to win by seven wickets in Guwahati.

With Krishnappa Gowtham and Vijaykumar Vyshak scalping two wickets, Baroda were restricted to 134/7 and Manish Pandey's men reached the target with five balls to spare. Devdutt Padikkal played an important role with a 47-ball 56 while Karun Nair scored an unbeaten 36. Karnataka, who are currently at the top, will meet Bengal in a crucial match on Tuesday.

If Hyderabad were to keep their winning record intact, they had to beat a strong Delhi side and the game went right down to the wire as the former registered a thrilling last-ball victory. Delhi put up a good total of 170/5, and Hyderabad skipper Tanmay Agarwal top-scored with 54 during the chase. A middle-order batting collapse saw them being reduced to 138/7 from 113/2 but Tanay Thyagarajan and Chama V Milind held their nerves to help the team win by three wickets in Gurgaon.

Meanwhile, it was a disappointing result for Tamil Nadu, who were expected to get past Goa in Elite Group A in Lucknow. Besides Sanjay Yadav (38), no one really got going, as they managed a below par total of 136/9. One has to give credit to left-arm Shrikant Wagh too as he took four wickets for Goa.

Market value of crypto tops $3 trillion for first time

TECH

LONDON: The world cryptocurrency market is worth more than $3 trillion for the first time, according to calculations Monday, as mainstream investors increasingly jump on board. The value has reached $3.007 trillion (2.6 trillion euros), said CoinGecko, which tracks prices of more than 10,000 cryptocurrencies.

"The crypto market is growing at a mind-blowing speed," noted SwissQuote analyst Ipek Ozkardeskaya. "A part of it is speculation of course, but a part of it is real," she told AFP. "Crypto is now making its way to traditional finance and everyone is on board."

Bitcoin, the world's biggest cryptocurrency, hit a record-high $66,000 last month after taking another step towards mainstream status. It surged back above $66,000 on Monday close to its all-time peak after a five percent jump. Ethereum, the second biggest cryptocurrency, hit a record high $4,768 on Monday. A bitcoin futures exchange-traded fund, a type of financial instrument, launched on the New York Stock Exchange in October.

The ETF is a more accessible vehicle that puts bitcoin within the grasp of even more investors. "Bitcoin is bouncing higher again, close to all-time highs," Hargreaves Lansdown market analyst Susannah Streeter said Monday. "The recent surge in the crypto... partly seems to have been caused by investors piling in, seeing it as a hedge against inflation," Streeter added. No more than 21 million bitcoin can be created, helping its price to trade way above its rivals.

THE CLOCK IS TICKING

The world has lost one year off the deadline to mend its ways to stick to the 1.5 degree Celsius warming target by the turn of the century. The Climate Clock, which keeps tabs on our efforts, is an interesting way to measure how we are faring. Let's explore how switching to renewable sources can buy us more time to save the future

A climate activist holding a digital replica of the Climate Clock during a demonstration in New York Times Square in 2020

TIME LEFT: 7 YEARS, 257 DAYS

IF WE FAIL: We would miss the threshold and the planet would warm up by 1.5 degree Celsius

MASTERMINDS: Climate activists Gan Golan and Andrew Boyd, art-fixer Katie Peyton Hofstadter and tech maestro Adrian Carpenter

Not a timekeeper

- It's not a real clock though. The deadline displayed on the clock is the product of some hefty data crunching
- The display shows the number of years we have to bring down our emissions
- If the dependency of fossil fuel remains, the number of years at hand would come down
- If more renewable energy sources are tapped, the number of years to control climate change would increase
- Apart from the New York clock, there are several strewn across the globe, all of which are synchronized to the same timeline and stay on pace

WHAT HAPPENED?

An entire year was hived off the total time we had when the clock was reset recently

During the pandemic, emissions had come down globally owing to the lockdowns, which led to an extension of the deadline on Climate Clock

Recent un-lock operations and resumption of industrial activities have had a cascading effect on emissions, leading to the deadline shortening

ONE DEADLINE

IN 2018, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change published a Special Report to quantify a remaining global carbon budget that could help keep global warming below 1.5ºC.

In summer 2021, the IPCC published a report on the physical science basis of climate change, which included updated carbon budget estimates for limiting global warming to 1.5ºC.

In this report, IPCC researchers estimated that, beginning in 2020, humans could release an additional 400Gt of carbon into the atmosphere and still have a 67% chance of limiting warming to 1.5ºC.

The Climate Clock deadline shows how long we have left until this carbon budget runs out, given the amount of carbon we continue to emit globally.

WARMING WILL BURN THE POOR

A 2.9 degree rise will see a 64% drop in GDP of poor countries by the turn of the century

CLIMATE

GLASGOW: The 65 most vulnerable nations will see GDP drop 20% on average by 2050 and 64% by 2100 if the world heats up 2.9 degrees Celsius, according to a report released Monday at the COP26 climate talks in Glasgow. Even if global temperature rises are capped at 1.5C, in keeping with the most ambitious Paris Agreement goal, the same countries would take a GDP hit of 13 percent by 2050 and 33 percent by the end of the century, the study commissioned by Christian Aid said.

To date, Earth's average surface temperature has risen 1.1C compared to late 19th-century levels. The findings from Christian Aid show that more than a third of the world's nations urgently need help to build up resilience if their economies are to withstand the onslaught of heatwaves, drought, floods and storms made more intense and deadly by global warming.

"The ability of countries in the Global South to sustainably develop is seriously jeopardised," said lead author Marina Andrijevic from Humboldt University in Berlin. Policy choices that we make right now are crucial for preventing further damage." Eight of the top 10 most affected countries are in Africa, with two in South America.

All 10 face GDP damage of more than 70 percent by 2100 under our current climate policy trajectory, and 40 percent even if global warming is capped at 1.5C.

The country facing the worst GDP loss is Sudan, which in September was left reeling from heavy rains and flash floods affecting more than 300,000 people. The country would see a GDP reduction of 32 percent by 2050, and 84 percent by 2100 compared with if there was no climate change.

The countries covered by the report make up two key negotiating blocs at the UN climate talks, which run through Friday: the Least Developed Countries (LDCs) and Alliance of Small Island States (AOSIS).

Small island states are especially vulnerable to storm surges made worse by rising seas. The study does not take into account adaptation measures, which could potentially alleviate some of the damage. To date, rich governments have committed only modest sums to help poor countries adapt to climate impacts. "Africa has the done the least to cause climate change yet this report shows it will face the most severe consequences. That is deeply unjust," said Mohamed Adow, director of Nairobi-based climate and energy think tank Power Shift Africa.

Meanwhile, former US President Barack Obama on Monday said "most countries have failed" to live up to promises they made in the Paris climate deal as he addressed attendees at the COP26 summit.

Obama, who was US leader in 2015 when the landmark accord was struck, said the world needed to "step up" its emissions-cutting pledges. "We have not done nearly enough to address this crisis," he told delegates in Glasgow. "We are going to have to do more and whether that happens or not to a large degree is going to depend on you."

Get jabbed or pay for hospital stay in S'pore

COVID

SINGAPORE: Singapore's Covid-19 patients who remain unvaccinated by choice will have to pay for their hospitalisation bills from December 8, the government said on Monday, as it got tough on people who are still holding off from getting their jabs.

The government currently foots the complete Covid medical bills of all Singaporeans, permanent residents and long-term pass holders, other than for those who have tested positive soon after returning.

On Monday, Health Minister Ong Ye Kung described the decision not to pay for unvaccinated people infected by Covid-19 an "important signal" to those who are still holding off on getting their jabs.

Speaking at a press conference held by the multi-ministry task force, which he co-chairs, Ong said hospitals would much prefer not having to bill these patients, as he urged all those eligible to get vaccinated.

Mystery of glass in Atacama solved

STUDY

MYSTERIOUS shards of glass strewn across Chile's Atacama Desert were likely created by an ancient exploding comet, a study has claimed. The pieces of dark green or black glass, which came to scientists' attention a decade ago, are clustered in a vast corridor that stretches almost 50 miles (75km) across.

Some are up to 20 inches (50cm big) and look as if they've been folded and twisted into their current forms. It had been thought they could have been created by volcanic activity or ancient grass fires — because the region wasn't always a desert — but new research led by Brown University has come to a different conclusion. The study discovered that the glass contained tiny fragments with minerals often found in rocks of extraterrestrial origin.

Those minerals closely match the composition of material returned to Earth by NASA's Stardust mission, which sampled the particles from a comet called Wild 2, the authors said.

They concluded that the minerals are likely the remains of an extraterrestrial object — most likely a comet — streamed down after an explosion that melted the sandy surface below. 'This is the first time we have clear evidence of glasses on Earth that were created by the thermal radiation and winds from a fireball exploding just above the surface,' said the study's lead author Pete Schultz, of Brown University. 'To have such a dramatic effect on such a large area, this was a truly massive explosion.

'Lots of us have seen bolide fireballs streaking across the sky, but those are tiny blips compared to this.' Researchers collected more than 300 samples of the desert glass before examining them under an electron microscope and analysing their chemical composition through spectroscopy.

The samples showed evidence of having been twisted, folded, rolled and even thrown while still in molten form.

FACT OF THE MATTER

1st Chinese woman to spacewalk

SPACE

Astronaut Wang Yaping became the first Chinese woman to walk in space, authorities said Monday, as her team completed a six-hour stint outside the Tiangong space station as part of its ongoing construction. Tiangong — meaning heavenly palace — is the latest achievement in China's drive to become a major space power, after landing a rover on Mars and sending probes to the Moon. Its core module entered orbit earlier this year, with the station expected to be operational by 2022. Wang and her colleague Zhai Zhigang stepped out of the module on Sunday night, waving to the camera while tethered to the outside of the station, and installed a suspension device and transfer connectors.

Red tomatoes for red planet

RESEARCH

Heinz has made a version of its ketchup from tomatoes grown in Mars-like soil, in an effort to understand how humans might one day live on the Red Planet. Unlike soil on Earth, Martian regolith, as it is known, is much harsher for crops, as it is devoid of any significant amount of organic matter, and Mars itself gets far less sunlight. It started by picking the perfect seeds, and implementing world-leading techniques for crops to flourish. The research saw them team up with a group of leading scientists at the Florida Institute of Technology's Aldrin Space Institute to grow the famous Heinz tomatoes. A bespoke greenhouse, dubbed the 'Redhouse' was built on the grounds of the Aldrin Space Institute.

ANOTHER CRISIS

Desert turns dumping ground for fast fashion leftovers

ECONOMY

CHILE: A mountain of discarded clothing including Christmas sweaters and ski boots cuts a strange sight in Chile's Atacama, the driest desert in the world, which is increasingly suffering from pollution created by fast fashion. The social impact of rampant consumerism in the clothing industry -- such as child labor in factories or derisory wages -- is well-known, but the disastrous effect on the environment is less publicized.

Chile has long been a hub of secondhand and unsold clothing, made in China or Bangladesh and passing through Europe, Asia or the United States before arriving in Chile, where it is resold around Latin America. Some 59,000 tons of clothing arrive each year at the Iquique port in the Alto Hospicio free zone in northern Chile.

Clothing merchants from the capital Santiago, 1,800 kilometers to the south, buy some, while much is smuggled out to other Latin American countries. But at least 39,000 tons that cannot be sold end up in rubbish dumps in the desert.

"This clothing arrives from all over the world," Alex Carreno, a former employee in the port's import area, told AFP.

"What is not sold to Santiago nor sent to other countries stays in the free zone" as no one pays the necessary tariffs to take it away. "The problem is that the clothing is not biodegradable and has chemical products, so it is not accepted in the municipal landfills," said Franklin Zepeda, the founder of EcoFibra, a company that makes insulation panels using discarded clothing. "I wanted to stop being the problem and start being the solution," he told AFP about the firm he created in 2018.

According to a 2019 UN report, global clothing production doubled between 2000 and 2014, and the industry is "responsible for 20 percent of total water waste on a global level." To make a single pair of jeans requires 7,500 liters (2,000 gallons) of water.

The same report said that clothing and footwear manufacturing contributes eight percent of global greenhouse gases, and that "every second, an amount of textiles equivalent to a garbage truck is buried or burnt."

From small-size pizzas, half portions of pasta and high teas for one, restaurants in the city are modifying their menus to cater to the growing demand of single diners

TO be able to enjoy one's own company is often an acquired skill. And yet, going to restaurants, pubs or movies alone draws attention from curious on-lookers. But the pandemic has changed much and Bengalureans are embracing the friends in themselves. Noticing this, restaurateurs are adapting their menus to include a single portion for such diners. From small-size pizzas, half portions of pasta to high teas for one, the food selection for single diners is growing in the city.

With the work-from-home option still in place for many professionals, more and more people are heading to restaurants for a change in environment. "We have a few regulars, including a doctor, who come to the bar at least once a week and spend many hours here by themselves. They either read a book or order some food and sit by themselves," says Krishnapriya Banerjee, marketing and events planner at URU Brewpark in JP Nagar. On their menu are several items suitable for a single diner. "The sliders, for instance, are easy to eat and aren't messy when working. Many don't order Indian food, but salads, pastas and seven-inch pizzas are preferred," Banerjee says.

Most restaurants serve family portions or a largish portion size not suitable for one person. In order to control wasting and also help customers go easy on the pocket, Little Italy in Indiranagar serves half a portion of their pasta and small-sized pizza. Amrut Mehta, director of Little Italy Group of Restaurants, says, "Diners have the option to share their portion preferences with us, based on which we serve dishes accordingly. This way, they can also try more than one item and have a complete dining experience like everyone else does."

For those not up for lunch or dinner, there's a high-tea option that Conrad Bengaluru offers exclusively for single diners. The experience is complete with the Charlie stand comprising savoury dishes and mini desserts like sandwiches, samosas and cakes. Chef Praveen Shetty, director of culinary, says, "Even if they aren't our in-house guests, there are single diners frequenting our restaurants . People want to try more items on the menu and sometimes the a la carte and buffet options may not be the best choice. So a set portion, and in this case, high tea in the evening, gives them a lavish experience to taste multiple items." And the icing on the cake is the pricing which is also halved.

If there's a major change that the pandemic has brought about, it's the takeaway and home delivery option. Star hotels have joined this home delivery bandwagon, also taking into consideration single diners. Uchit Vohra, executive chef of ITC Gardenia Bengaluru, says, "A set menu is the most preferred. It's almost like they can have multiple courses but in small portions. The options are varied, there are Bento boxes for those preferring Japanese meals, and small-portion thalis too." Once upon a time, single diners opted for starters owing to the portioning but Vohra points out that main courses, when given in smaller quantities, can be equally satiating.

So the next time you step out, you needn't worry that the portion size is "too large" for you.

Role-play

From essaying the part of an eight-year-old to playing an oppressed woman, Bengaluru-based physician, Dr Debanjana Nath, juggles her profession and passion with ease

SANATH PRASAD

IT was in the year 2014 that Dr Debanjana Nath was performing on stage at a college cultural event. Little did the 33-year-old doctor realise that it would be a launchpad for her journey as a theatre artiste. An independent general physician, specialising in skin and hair care, Nath attends to at least 40-50 patients through online consultations on a daily basis. However, she engages in online play readings and script writing sessions with her theatre group during the evenings.

Trained and mentored by renowned theatre artiste, late Ratan Thakore Grant, Nath is a theatre artiste by dusk and a general physician by day. As an introvert, Nath believed that stage performances actually help her open up and ease social interactions. "Cultural performances during my college days were the trigger to pursue acting seriously. I was an introvert and was shy. In order to handle patients, I had to open up and communicate better. This is why I took up theatre. It has definitely made me a better person," says Nath, who hails from Silchar, Assam, and came to the city to pursue medicine in 2009.

Nath's first stage appearance took place in November 2016 at Atta Galatta in Koramangala. A periodic drama, set in the 1950s, she essayed a role of an oppressed woman, Champa, in the play called Binder. However, holding onto acting consistently hasn't been easy, thanks to medical emergencies that keep her on her toes. She was working as a junior resident doctor in the department of neurology at a private hospital in Bengaluru where she dealt with many surgeries from time to time. "By 7 pm, I would wrap up and head to the studio for rehearsals in Koramangala and practise for my upcoming plays till 1 am. With irregular shifts, it was very difficult to keep up with my passion. I still stick to the same routine of rehearsing for plays every evening," says Nath, who has worked with many Bengaluru-based theatre groups like Theatre On Your Own, Kahe Vidushak and Our Theatre.

Her most challenging role so far was essaying the role of an eight-year-old distressed girl who lost her father to Covid-19 in Namak, a short play directed by Sreenivas Naidu. "Playing the role of a young girl was quite challenging. I had to sleep on the floor and understand what a girl from a poor background went through during the peak of the pandemic," says Nath, who selects plays based on current trends in the social spectrum and also stories based on historical dramas.

Besides this, she also conducts theatre workshops for students and corporates to help them understand the fundamentals of working together and bringing out the artistic side to oneself.

What is her major takeaway from theatre? "For me, theatre is about working with people. It is teamwork which requires many members to capture an idea and communicate it to the masses. I thought theatre would make me a better actor, but I am now a better person," says Nath.

I was an introvert. In order to handle patients better, I had to open up. This is why I took up theatre. It has definitely made me a better person more than a better actor

Strokes of passion

ANILA KURIAN

HE'S an electronic engineer by profession but swimming is his passion. Meet Srikaanth Viswanathan, the 49-year-old who learnt swimming when he was 33 years old. He nurtured his dream, braved the icy waters in the US and completed the Triple Crown of Open Water Swimming in 2019. The challenges have been worth it as he has now been selected by the Ministry of Youth and Sports, Government of India for the Tenzing Norgay National Adventure Award 2020. The award will be conferred by the President Ram Nath Kovind on November 13 at Rashtrapati Bhavan, New Delhi.

Speaking to CE, Viswanathan says, "The award is the highest national recognition for achievements in the field of adventure on land, sea and air. While this award is given out in August every year, due to the Tokyo Olympics and Paralympics, the Ministry decided to postpone it."

He has been selected under the 'Water Category', based on his accomplishments of swimming in the English Channel, Catalina Channel and Manhattan 20 Bridges Swim over the last three years. Being the only one from Karnataka to be selected, Viswanathan says, "Bengaluru has been home for me and my family for the last 22 years. I learnt how to swim here as well. I am hopeful that the Karnataka government will take note of this achievement as well."

While fitness has always been a major part of his routine, staying fit during the pandemic wasn't easy. "Maintaining an overall fitness is very important for any endurance sport. During the pandemic, while I could do dryland exercises for strength training and cardio, actual swimming in pools was not possible due to the lockdown. It was a big struggle to even perform 50 per cent of my workout when pools opened," he says, adding he's still working on getting back his old endurance levels.

Nevertheless, he's already training for his next big goal — the Ocean Seven Swim, which requires swimming in the seven toughest channels across different oceans in the world.

"I have completed two so far and have signed up with channels like Cook Strait and North Channel Swims which I will pursue in the years," he says.

While he had to postpone his trips owing to Covid restrictions, he looks forward to travelling to New Delhi to receive the award from the President. "I am a big believer of dreaming big and passionately going after it. Not even in my wildest dreams did I imagine this. All I wanted to do was to perfect my swim so that I can enjoy swimming for long hours. Other accolades and recognitions are side effects of following my passion," says Viswanathan.

FIT BIT

ARDHA VIRASANA

(HALF HERO POSE)

It is a relatively basic seated posture, but it requires some flexibility. In addition to building flexibility and stretching the legs and feet, this asana also has a very calming, soothing effect on the mind. It activates the Muladhara (root chakra), which is located at the base of the spine. Energising the Muladhara promotes a sense of security and is also associated with health, passion and abundance. If sitting all the way down is difficult, a block can be placed between the feet for extra support.

STEPS

- Sit in Dandasana (Staff Pose).
- Keep your sitting bones grounded and both legs straight in front of you.
- If your lower back slumps backward, put a folded blanket under your sitting bones for support.
- Bend your left knee, take the foot back alongside the hip, and place your shin on the floor. Make sure that the left foot is pointing straight back, and press all five toes into the floor.
- If you find that you are leaning to the right or your left foot is turning out, place a folded blanket under your right hip to elevate that side.
- Keep your right leg straight, with the toes and kneecap pointing up and your quads contracted.
- Place your hands to the sides of your body, flat on the floor, and, if possible, slightly behind your hips.
- Keep your spine perpendicular to the floor. Inhale, and lengthen the spine from the waist to the shoulders.
- Exhale, and allow the left hip to settle in alongside the left heel.
- Feel the top of your left foot and left quadriceps stretching out, and all the toes pressing into the floor.
- Hold it for at least a minute, preferably longer. Then change sides.

BENEFITS

- Improves blood circulation and relaxes the legs.
- Therapeutic for asthma and high blood pressure.
- Strengthens foot arches.
- Improves digestion and relieves gas.
- Relieve symptoms of menopause.

LIMITATIONS

- People suffering from any problem in heart, thigh, ankle, leg, back, neck or joint pain, migraine or spinal disorders avoid this.
- If you have chronic pain, inflammation, a recent hip or knee injury or disc hernia avoid this.

1 THE HAUNTING TRUTH OF GHOST STORIES BY COYA PAZ BROWNRIGG

Ghost stories reveal much more than the ghouls and spirits that haunt them. Settle in for a spooky delight as theater educator Coya Paz Brownrigg lays out three types of bone-chilling tales and exhumes the grave truths they hold about longing, meaning and the cultural value of eerie encounters.

Fall fashion is taken pretty seriously in Bengaluru. Designers and fashion influencers give us a low-down on what's trending this season

WARM HUES

SHREYA VERONICA

THE mornings are hazy, the nights are chilly and the days are pleasant. As winter approaches, it's time to fluff up our sweaters and cardigans, and polish those knee-high boots. Although the winter in Bengaluru is not that harsh, compared to the northern parts of the country, fall fashion is taken pretty seriously here. Well, there's no harm in adding a hint of glamour while we stay warm.

Archana Puneeth, a designer who is known to experiment with an array of fabrics, has been looking forward to this season. "Every year, November was when my grandfather used to unpack his woollen gloves, mufflers and ushankas. Now, times have changed and the winter is getting shorter. I rearrange my closet with shawls, trench coats, blazers, sweaters, polo necks and boots. I keep a few pairs of gloves, balaclavas and warmers handy too," she says.

Puneeth has tied up with weavers across the country for a collection which includes silhouettes of trench coats, long coats, shirts, shorts, skirts and pants, which are ideal for winters. "A great way to transition from fall to winter is dressing up your button shirts with warm but casual outwear. Scarves, casual sweaters and cardigans are perfect. Layering your favourite cozy knits atop or below your fancier evening wear will not only render them far more comfortable, but is also a much more versatile daytime option," she says.

If the aim is to turn heads this winter, go bold with colours. But unlike recent seasons where clashing shades had reigned supreme, it is all about keeping the look monosyllabic. For instance, accessorise a zesty lemon yellow blazer with a stack of rings and bracelets. Match a bag and shoes too, accordingly.

A good pair of sneakers does it all

Boots can really take your entire outfit game to another level

Turtle necks with statement scarfs and an oversized jacket is an ensemble you should try this fall

One of the hottest colours this winter is 'Kermit - The Frog' green. Also, shirt dressing with layers is all the rage. "Get your favourite crisp white shirt and simply wear it beneath a dress. Whether your dress is strapless, V-neck, round-neck or tight-bustier style worn around the waist, the layered collar will add a chic, formal dimension to an otherwise more relaxed silhouette," says Puneeth.

Designer Asmita Marwa vouches for layering. Long jackets with ankle-length trousers and oversized boyfriend jackets are a thing now, she says. "As winter approaches, it is nice to bring out your boots and darker-coloured dresses. Try and layer your look as much as you can. Even if it is a t-shirt, boots, scarves or stoles, keep a synergy to the colour palette," she says.

Marwa suggests to try indigo, navy blue and other shades of blue, but to avoid wearing contrasting colours. "Stick to one solid colour and mix them up. Try olives and blues this season. Long and short skirts with denims are always trending. Wear these with boots and sequence tops to look casual. Use chunky boots as well to make your outfit look even classier," she recommends.

Fashion influencer-model Nilofer Haidry is all for trench coats. She loves wearing these with A-line skirts, stockings and pointed heels or boots. "You can also turn a scarf into a top and use a belt to hold it in place. That's how I dress up. On colder days, I prefer a three-layered outfit which goes well with a coat and muffler. If you're wearing a loose cardigan, team it up with something tighter and contrasting," she says.

Since the winter in Bengaluru usually isn't too cold, Haidry says a light woollen sweater, warm dresses and bodycon dresses should do the trick. Pair these with boots, riding jackets, a nice watch and you will have a great look.

White or black: what 'lies' behind a TRUTH

As 21-year-olds, when my friends and I planned to legitimately enter a pub, basking under the 'glory' of stepping into 'political adulthood' (that was the eligible age to vote then), a friend's mother asked: "Where are you all going?" And he replied: "For a pitcher!" The mother heard it as was intended – 'picture' instead of 'pitcher' – and fell to being convinced that we were headed to a cinema. We had a good laugh at her expense, little realising then that even a seemingly harmless white lie is still a lie meant to achieve an end.

The epic Mahabharata narrates an incident during the 14-day war between the Pandavas and Kauravas. Pandavas plan to demoralise Drona, the master archer and guru of both the warring sets of cousins, and who is fighting on Kauravas' side. During the battle, an elephant named Ashwathama is killed. But Drona's son is also named Ashwathama. News reaches Drona that "Ashwathama is killed", and wants to know whether it is the elephant or his son who is dead. He turns to the one and only who he trusts to deliver him the truth – the eldest of the Pandava brothers, Yudhisthir, known for his unshakeable honesty.

"Is Ashwathama dead, Yudhishtir?" Drona asks him. And Yudhisthir replies: "Yes, Ashwathama, the elephant, is dead!" But, when he replies, he lowers his voice to a whisper while uttering "the elephant", and Drona is made to believe falsely that his son has died. Yudhisthir's white lie achieved the objective of demoralising Drona and his subsequent end. Drona's end was achieved by a man known for his honesty, through a white lie.

We are told right from childhood that lying is bad, but we find it extremely difficult to follow it. We are explained – and convinced, at least apparently – that it is a sin, a ticket to "Hell". But the instinct to preserve one's own image or character in the eyes of the others compels us to resort to lying, and blatantly at that. The skill lies in how convincing the lie is. The practice, once perfected, becomes an ally throughout life and its different phases, and a tool to achieve escape from a tight situation.

Why, even the Second World War was started by Hitler with an act of a lie that justified attacking Poland on September 1, 1939 – an act which was exposed during the Nuremberg Trials. The Nazis, on August 31, 1939, faked an attack by Poland by dressing up concentration camp inmates as Polish soldiers, injecting them with fatal injections, spreading their bodies at Germany's Gleiwitz radio station on the border with Poland, and shooting the dead in a manner to convince the media that they were Polish soldiers killed while launching an attack on the German installation. Britain declared war on Germany two days later, and the Second World War (1939-45) commenced, to finally claim 60 lakh lives.

Ayn Rand, in her 1957 novel Atlas Shrugged, says, "People think that a liar gains a victory over his victim. What I've learned is that a lie is an act of self-abdication, because one surrenders one's reality to the person to whom one lies, making that person one's master, condemning oneself from then on to faking the sort of reality that person's view requires to be faked…The man who lies to the world, is the world's slave from then on… There are no white lies, there is only the blackest of destruction, and a white lie is the blackest of all."

But it all comes down to what German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche says: "I'm not upset that you lied to me, I'm upset that from now on I can't believe you."

Why adults should learn Carnatic music

WE tend to associate learning Carnatic music with young children. And while it is a great idea to start learning music as early as possible, there's no such thing as "it's too late" to start learning. Here are some reasons why learning Indian classical music, at any age, comes with many benefits:

1. While music for young children leads to improved focus in school and better motor skills, music for elderly people has been shown to improve memory and hearing. In many cases, it has also been shown to offset some of the mental discomforts of ageing.
2. Learning Indian classical music builds discipline. Learning to sing or play within a set scale and rhythm is a great way to start working with structure. Working on a sustainable practice schedule develops a sense of discipline, which is a wonderful quality to build at any age.
3. It is a great stress buster. Different ragas convey different moods and emotions, and Carnatic music comes with a great range of expressions. Learning to sing or play these ragas is an effective way to recharge.
4. It improves listening skills. Identifying ragas is an integral part of learning Carnatic music. Learning and listening to Indian classical music builds your ability to distinguish pitch, melody, tempo, and more.
5. Learning Carnatic music connects you to your cultural roots. Each song comes with its own history. You get to learn more about the composer who wrote hundreds of thousands of pieces throughout their lifetime, or the instruments which were made using advanced techniques. Whether you want your child to grow up with this sense of culture, or you yourself want to reconnect with where you come from, learning Carnatic music is a great place to start.
6. Picking up a Carnatic music instrument is fun at any age. Whether you're looking to develop your sense of rhythm with a percussion instrument like the mridangam or want to explore the veena or violin, Carnatic music has a path that you can chart.

As musicians and educators who work with thousands of students across age groups, we stand firmly by the idea that Indian classical music comes with great benefits, and shouldn't be available only to those from "musical families." And, while introducing music to children comes with great developmental benefits, learning Carnatic music at any age comes with many tangible takeaways too. Whether you're looking to start developing your voice, or reconnecting with the violin, there's no time like the present to get started.

Post festive blues

DID you celebrate the festival holidays by yourselves, or did you, like millions in the cities and towns of India, travel to meet your family wherever they are so you can celebrate the way you and your family have always done? When one is single, the choices are not too complicated – either one goes back to the family of origin, or not. Whether one stays home and continues work as always or travel out on a holiday doesn't really count – it is only about whether you are back "home" or away.

The challenges really come in when you are in a relationship that the respective families know about. Then, the choice of which family gets what holidays and how many days becomes quite a challenging negotiation, not just between the people in the relationship but their families and others. Some events are culturally significant and coded into the relationship pattern, but at most times, it is something the people in the relationship need to decide for themselves. Between duties, family obligations, work pressures, personal desires, the expense of the travel and other factors, these choices can become really difficult.

When one adds to that mix the emotional charge evident in these occasions, built as they are to highlight family relationship bonds, the potential for things to become quite explosive is much higher than on ordinary days. The pressure to conform to family customs on one side and the longing to form one's own traditions on the other side can get quite problematic. Sometimes, it can all get too much and one might just want to leave it all and get away altogether from everything and everybody.

There is nothing like the festive season to trigger feelings of loneliness, separation anxiety, social anxiety, depressive feelings, fear, conflict and so much more. It doesn't matter whether it is Deepavali, Eid, Christmas, New Year's Eve or whatever else that matters to you – the feelings that it can potentially bring up are a lot more deep than usual. People who are by themselves might struggle in some ways and people in relationships might struggle in other ways, but the chances of there being an emotional challenge is that much higher, and conversely, the chances also of deep emotional connection, whether it is like in O Henry's eternal Christmas story The Gift of the Magi, or similar stories in different cultures and mythology of how love finds a way to make itself felt, no matter the financial circumstances or social standing. The gifts that matter in all these stories are, at the end of the day, not what money can buy but the thoughtfulness that love brings, the awareness of who the persons we care about really are and how we know each other.

Despite all the hassles of the festive season, the one reason or is still a big deal is not so much about the duties and obligations, but the potential to truly feel loved, and sometimes more importantly, to truly know we are a loving person.

Nischith Korodi

‘Being an actor, I want to be like water’

... says actor Nischith Korodi, who talks about this second outing, Tom and Jerry slated to release on November 12

CE FEATURES

COMING from a theatre background, Nischith Korodi made a mark with his debut film, Gantumoote. For his sophomore film, Tom and Jerry, Nischith has undergone quite a transformation.

According to the actor, it is Raaghav Vinay Shivagange’s film that demanded he undergo the transformation. “I understood the weightage of the role, right after reading the 1st page of the script. I wanted to fit in as a middle-class boy, and accordingly worked on the transformation,” says Nischith, ahead of the film’s release on November 12.

The one-film-old actor said this shift was important because he was cautious of not being stereotyped. “Post Gantumoote, I didn’t want to be categorised to a certain genre, and I didn’t want the filmmakers and audience to think I fit into only romantic subjects. So this make-over helps to provide the right variations in my career, and Tom and Jerry was definitely the right move.”

Nischith, who is just at the beginning of his career, feels an actor has to be like water, and fit into any character. Nischith adds that the role he plays in Tom and Jerry has a different flavour and sets it apart from his first. “The film based on friendship also highlights upon a mother-son relationship. There is a lot to experience in the film, which has a strong content at its core,” he says.

Made under the RiddhiSiddhi Films banner, Tom and Jerry stars Chaithra Rao as the female lead, and also features Tara, Jai Jagadish, Rangayana Raghu, Kaddipudi Chandru, Padmaja Rao, Gunakshekar, and Prakash Tumbinadu in prominent roles.

Dwayne Johnson to return for Fast and Furious 10?

CE FEATURES

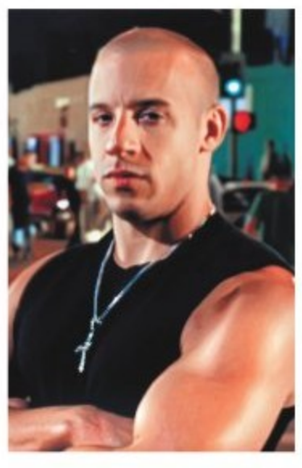
VIN Diesel has penned a letter to his Fast and Furious co-star Dwayne Johnson, asking him to return to the franchise’s 10th and final installment. While sharing a still of the two from Fast Five on Instagram, Diesel wrote, “My little brother Dwayne... the time has come. The world awaits the finale of Fast 10. As you know, my children refer to you as Uncle Dwayne in my house. There is not a holiday that goes by that they and you don’t send well wishes... but the time has come.”

Johnson, who plays Luke Hobbs, and Diesel, who plays Dominic Cooper, had differences while filming the franchise, with Johnson calling the working environment unprofessional. Both of them have addressed their clashes multiple times ever since, with Johnson also acknowledging it in a recent interview.

Diesel added in his post, “Legacy awaits. I told you years ago that I was going to fulfill my promise to Pablo. I swore that we would reach and manifest the best Fast in the finale that is 10! I say this out of love... but you must show up, do not leave the franchise idle you have a very important role to play. Hobbs can’t be played by no other. I hope that you rise to the occasion and fulfill your destiny.”

Johnson appeared in a total of five Fast and Furious films, including one spin-off, Hobbs & Shaw. He hinted in an interview ahead of the release of F9 (in which he did not appear) that he’ll longer be acting in the future films from the franchise.

Directed by Justin Lin, the 10th Fast and Furious film is set to enter production in January next year.



A LITTLE SHOW THAT BECAME A SENSATION

...says Dhruv Sehgal, along with co-star Mithila Palkar as they discuss their experience working on Little Things and bidding adieu with the final season

A still from the film

VIGNESH MADHU

LITTLE Things premiered on YouTube in 2016 as a sugar-coated romcom, and soon, attained incredible popularity among the youth. Five years later, the show is now on Netflix and has the reputation of being India’s longest-running series. As the curtains finally came down with the fourth and final season, here are the show’s two stars, Dhruv Sehgal and Mithila Palkar, discussing its success:

Excerpts:

It has been quite a journey for Little Things from YouTube to Netflix...

Dhruv (D): We have received so much love over this period. Right now, we just feel gratitude to have experienced something so gratifying for so long. We feel humbled that people still have that love for us.

Did the migration to Netflix demand any changes in writing or making?

D: Of course, the making got scaled up. With better cameras and production values, the show looks more beautiful and pleasing. But in terms of writing, nothing much changed.

Dhruv was a part of the writing team, but Mithila, are you used to giving inputs as well?

Mithila (M): I’m a huge fan of Dhruv’s writing. A lot of Little Things is his writing and then, the rest of us add flavour. During the first season, Kavya sounded a lot like Dhruv. But later on, he let me have the liberty to make Kavya my own. This made it easy for me to get into character.

D: I relate and resonate with both characters. I wouldn’t say they are exactly like us, but there’s a fair bit of influence. The idea is also to make it life-like and make them seem like real people.

M: The relatability with Kavya grew over the years for me. I was new to her during the first season, but the familiarity grew every season.

The plan was to shoot the 4th season in Finland, as we understand, but the pandemic had other plans...

D: Yes, but luckily, the change made it more fun. We love Kerala and are great fans of the people and the food there. Everybody in the crew knew where to get their biryani, parotta, and beef roast. Before we went to Kerala, some of us did regret being unable to get to Finland, but once we reached Kerala, nobody spoke about it.

How did you react to the realisation that this was the final season?

M: It was a bittersweet feeling. Of course, it is going to be sad to leave everything behind, but we just need to remember to be grateful for the love we have received over the years. We would rather leave it on this note than drag it around till the audience gets fatigued. Also, we did not want to reach a point of boredom even for ourselves.

D: It’s the same for me. As actors and creators, you want to be excited and stimulated with work. You don’t want to approach it with a sense of fatigue or repetition.

Given an option, would you guys love to come back as Dhruv and Kavya, maybe a few years later...

D: I guess, yeah...

M: We will know that in a few years. For us, it has still not sunk in that the show has come to an end. We never thought about a second season when we first shot it. So, we don’t know what awaits us in the future.
